[illegible] has gone down hill [illegible] compared with many of [illegible] progress in population, [illegible] and political power. [illegible] describes exactly the [illegible] commonwealth and people [illegible] blessed with unrivaled ad- [illegible] may well ask: "What have [illegible] have we built up? What [illegible] have we constructed?" We agree [illegible] that "these are questions [illegible] themselves forcibly to our [illegible] us to a sense of the lethargy [illegible] that have characterized our movements [illegible] and, to a sense of the deep importance of [illegible] to the task of devising the ways [illegible] of building up our 'markets' and com- [illegible] great thoroughfares." But, says the [illegible] Virginia "is asleep, or if not asleep, drag- [illegible] her slow length along so uncertainly, [illegible] the hearts of her most hopeful sons are grad- [illegible] sinking deeper and deeper in the slough of de- [illegible]." This is all true enough.

[illegible] SCHEME OF EMIGRATION—LETTER FROM ELI THAYER.

[illegible], Mass., Thursday, March 12, 1857.

[illegible] I thank you for your lucid and able anal- [illegible] and purposes of the North American [illegible] given in the Herald of Feb. [illegible] a true conception of the propose [illegible] an accurate appreciation of it [illegible] its probable results. [illegible] you that it is our purpose to be strictly a [illegible] with the laws, State and National [illegible] with wonderful tenacity to the Con- [illegible] the Union. [illegible] large tracts of land at Slave- [illegible] give away to actual settlers about [illegible] shall sell about one-fourth at cost, and [illegible] at Free-State prices—thus probably [illegible] our money on each operation. [illegible] no chance for such speculation except in [illegible] and even in them only in proportion to [illegible] of Slavery. For example: There will be [illegible] for us to buy land in Hancock, Brooke, [illegible] or Ohio counties, in Western Virginia, for in [illegible] counties it is worth from $30 to $37 per acre. [illegible] counties, and the bulk of the others in Western [illegible] are essentially free. Our chances would be [illegible] better in Dinwiddie, Southampton, Accomac, [illegible] counties, where we can obtain [illegible] $5 per acre—such being the average [illegible] localities where the slaves are a major- [illegible]. Now these lands are more de- [illegible] those of the counties first named, and by [illegible] them free white colonies we can make [illegible] valuable. It is too much, therefore, for [illegible] neighbors to expect of human nature— [illegible] of Yankee human nature—that we [illegible] any such chance as this of securing [illegible] ample dividends, especially when this can [illegible] a manner perfectly legal and constitutional. [illegible] many of the people of Virginia actually de- [illegible] friendly invasion of the Old Domin- [illegible] army of free white labor. I [illegible] that even slaveholders are on our side, [illegible] in large numbers. [illegible] offered to take stock to the ex- [illegible] in the proposed company. Ken- [illegible] and Maryland are already looking with envy [illegible] destiny of Virginia, and are inviting [illegible] invigorating agency of free labor to their [illegible]

[illegible] has sent a delegation for the purpose [illegible] colony of one hundred Yankees to build [illegible] landing on the Missouri River. [illegible] together with the tone of a large [illegible] press, make it manifest that [illegible] will be admirably sustained [illegible] treated with kindness and respect. [illegible] the contrary, a portion of the people of [illegible] in defence of their own interests and of our [illegible] far stultify themselves as to follow [illegible] and secession fire-eaters [illegible] against the lives and property [illegible] they must be met by the [illegible] and the laws; and should these fail to [illegible] popular sovereignty must be invoked [illegible] as it has been for Kansas. We [illegible] We are not that kind of [illegible] good dividends are at stake. In defence [illegible] we send our whale ships to the Northern [illegible]. We send our missionaries among [illegible] for principle. We have defied all perils [illegible] the Gospel to the heathen without [illegible] of pecuniary gain; but with that in- [illegible] the Gospel of Freedom "will have free [illegible] and be glorified."

[illegible] charged with participating in the [illegible] contrary to law, for 'filthy lucre.' If [illegible] probably participate in making [illegible] for the same 'filthy lucre.' [illegible] a kidnapper in the country who will [illegible] business of catching negroes in Africa for [illegible] when it shall have been demon- [illegible] can make 10 per cent. more in making [illegible] a free State. [illegible] such bigots in their profession as to [illegible] a lucrative business, protected by [illegible] exchange for a hazardous, illegal [illegible] traffic. [illegible] is no use, then, in talking about hanging or [illegible] colonists, or the members of our com- [illegible] half of us were hung or shot, the rest would [illegible] towards the shining dollars, even though [illegible] should rush

"Into the jaws of death,
Into the mouth of hell,
Like the six hundred."

[illegible] of approaching success in this enterprise [illegible] accumulating. It is seen in the letters [illegible] from the Slave States, and in the numer- [illegible] of colonists from the free, and more [illegible] in the readiness of capitalists to invest in [illegible] of this Company. This, however, is not un- [illegible]. Millions of acres of Virginia land [illegible] by the merchants and bankers of New-York [illegible] will be made available, at a profit [illegible] who have heretofore despaired [illegible] at any price. Our Company will there- [illegible] valuable medium between these [illegible] the hardy pioneers, who can thus be [illegible] on easy terms. This is [illegible]

[illegible] AT THE PROSPECT OF [illegible] STATE IMPROVED.

[illegible], published [illegible], April 1.

[illegible] THE OLD DOMINION IN [illegible] some time a mysterious threat of in- [illegible] the "Northern hive" has been sus- [illegible] over the good people of this Commonwealth; [illegible] not until yesterday that the grand propor- [illegible] were revealed in distinct and defi- [illegible]. Eli Thayer, the Hermit Peter of the [illegible] Scriptural name suits his sacerdotal [illegible] an official promulgation of his plan. [illegible] find the manifesto in another column. [illegible] by which to ascertain the exact [illegible] Yankee impudence, else we might de- [illegible] whether this "North American Home- [illegible] Company" be a bona fide enterprise, or only a [illegible]. If it be nothing more than a hoax, [illegible] it wears a very striking veri-sim- [illegible] illustrates the ingenuity of its [illegible] object, to wit, the realization of a [illegible] the audacity of its incidental [illegible] to the overthrow of the institu- [illegible] State, and that not the least inso- [illegible]; the mingled spirit of piety [illegible] of politics and philanthropy, which per- [illegible] the document; all these characteristic circum- [illegible] it as a Yankee production, and [illegible] quite an air of earnest reality.

To be sure, the obvious and utter impracticability [illegible] argues something against the sin- [illegible], and the peril implied in its [illegible] is not a very inviting prospect to the [illegible] Sumner and Burlingame. Yet, in [illegible] there is some passion stronger [illegible] of death; and, as the people of the [illegible] readily stake life on a point of honor, so do the [illegible] of the North, run the hazard of [illegible] and penitentiaries, for the chance of realizing a [illegible] on a cargo of African negroes. Eli [illegible] an apprehension of resistance to [illegible] of paupers and prostitutes; but the [illegible] of gain, maintains his courage, and [illegible] "We are not the kind of [illegible] when a good dividend is at [illegible]"

[illegible] the truth. It may be [illegible] to [illegible] so [illegible] Anti-slavery [illegible]. On this [illegible] we are invited to [illegible] enterprise [illegible] aspect.

[illegible] that his colony will enjoy the protec- [illegible] and so it will, in pursuit of a lawful [illegible] a piratical expedition [illegible] security and welfare of the com- [illegible] object is to subvert the in- [illegible] to destroy the property of its [illegible] from the cause and interests of [illegible]. These are the great aims of the enterprise, [illegible] Eli Thayer might as well proclaim them in [illegible]. True, he wants to make the opera- [illegible] pay; and could a Yankee be destitute of such an [illegible]? We repeat, the object of this "Home- [illegible] Emigration Society" is identical with that of [illegible] original Kansas Emigrant Aid Society. In- [illegible] the one is an imitation of the other, [illegible] Mr. Eli Thayer, [illegible] in the first expedition [illegible] lead [illegible]. It is a crusade [illegible] propaga- [illegible] of Black Republicanism [illegible] experiment [illegible] allowed on our part, will [illegible] Democracy [illegible] of Southern spirit, and will embolden [illegible] in the same proportion. It will stir [illegible] in the State, will inflame strife among its [illegible] and will compromise its dignity and its safe- [illegible], the enterprise will consummate the [illegible] in Virginia. And not only [illegible] the way for the march of Black [illegible] the South, and will release us [illegible] the battle in our own borders. [illegible] Slavery will [illegible] defensive, and like Napoleon, [illegible] the charm of invincibility, we will be [illegible] position after position in our own Ter- [illegible] at last we are compelled to an inglorious [illegible] should take a stand at once. [illegible] and also to our sister States of [illegible] that these Yankee immigrants [illegible] Eli Thayer, be repulsed from the soil of Vir- ginia. No mere technicality of legal form can fetter a people in protecting their essential interests. A gov- ernment cannot be destitute of the power of resist- ance to an enterprise which strikes at the foundation of society. We have a Governor whose antecedents and character forbid the idea that he will quietly suf- fer a colony of Abolitionists to plant themselves upon our soil. We have a people whose sensibility to ag- gression from the North, has been exasperated by a succession of insults and outrages, and who are in no mood to bear with composure such a wrong and indignity as Mr. Eli Thayer meditates. So we warn Mr. Eli Thayer to stay at home; or else conduct his colony in another direction. At the last session of our Legislature, an act was passed for the punishment of Yankee emissaries. If Mr. Eli Thayer wants to test its efficacy, let him come with his hungry crew of rogues and vagabonds.

SOMETHING SENSIBLE FROM A SOUTHERN QUARTER, WHICH VIRGINIANS WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER.

From the New-Orleans Bulletin, March 27.

Colonizing Virginia.—The papers of late have given prominence to a scheme alleged to be on foot to colonize the northern part of Virginia by free laborers from Pennsylvania and New England. A company has been projected, it is said, with a capital of three or four millions of dollars, which either has purchased, or will, large tracts of worn-out land in Virginia, and will re-sell it in small farms to emigrants who will be induced to settle there. This is certainly a significant sign of the times, and may well attract public attention. Some of the Virginia papers, we notice, grow furious about it, and invoke the Legislature to take measures to prevent the "assaults of Abolition upon the institutions of the South!" Characteristic enough! We reckon it would be like "calling spirits from the vasty deep!" If they call the settlement of the worn-out sedge patches of Virginia which Gov. Wise says "outshine the sun," by emigrants from New-England or anywhere else, an assault upon the institutions of the South, we fear there will be no defence against the said assaults. A greater power than any Legislature is vested with must come to the rescue, as there will be no defence. It would be a spectacle decidedly rich and refreshing to see a Legislature of any State undertake to prescribe to its own citizens to whom they should dispose of their lands, barren or otherwise, who should and who should not settle upon and cultivate them, or to prevent the citizens of any other State from entering it and making it their permanent abode. The Legislature of a State is not quite competent to overthrow the Constitution of the United States. If the institutions of the South cannot be defended in any other way than this, then they are not susceptible of any defence at all. Such a mode of warfare would be in the first place, unconstitutional, in the next, utterly impossible of execution, and lastly, it would subject all concerned in it to boundless ridicule, would make them a target and a laughing stock to the whole country. Quixotic as it is however there doubtless may be found persons crazy enough to advocate it.

We refer to this matter simply because there is a principle involved in it bearing upon the Southern States, and in which, consequently, we are interested, though perhaps not to the same extent as the people of Virginia. Why is it that the latter State has been degenerating, its soil becoming exhausted, and its whole affairs going to waste and poverty? That she is going down hill and has been so for years, let her own press testify.

What is the cause, we ask, of all this? Instead of invoking the Legislature or the Giraffe to erect barriers against the inroads of the Yankees and Dutch, the "first families" would be more profitably employed, we submit, in obtaining an answer to this question, with reference to some sensible efforts to inaugurate a new and more encouraging order of things.

The whole secret of the wasting away of the Old Dominion, of its poverty, worn-out soil, dilapidated old fields, sedge patches, brier patches, waning power and influence, lies undoubtedly in the fact that her press, public men, and leading citizens generally, have devoted their attention from time immemorial, almost exclusively to politics. The rights of Virginia, the mother of States and of Statesmen, the rights of the South, the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of '98-'99, the Democracy, etc.—these have been the burden of the Virginia press ever since we can remember. The attention of her people has been directed to hair-splitting dogmas, about abstract State rights, the genius of Democracy, and President-making. The consequence has been that victory has always perched upon the banner of the said Democracy. "Federalism" has been whipped clear out of the State time and again, the people have been sound to the core in the faith of the most approved political orthodoxy, and—the State has been running down hill every day, too, having had twenty-three Members of Congress, in 1830, and thirteen now? Any lesson to be drawn from this? While "the rights of the South" have been vigorously defended, the wooden horse has entered through innumerable gaps in rotten fences, and grazed in thousands of dilapidated, worn-out old fields, wherever, in fact, he could get a bite, finding the grass, however, generally, we must say, so stunted as nearly to starve him to death. Internal improvements have been ignored, as rather too plebeian in character to occupy the attention of men of enlarged capacities; public schools—which always afford, of course, the life-blood of a State—have been almost entirely neglected. The rich were able to educate their own children; and as to the poor, what need had they for education? Has it not been held by some of the great lights of its press that knowing how to read is rather a disadvantage? Consequently, great numbers of her people have grown up in ignorance of the merest rudiments of mental culture.

The very Presses that have been directing the attention of the people of Virginia to far-off, abstract matters, which, however true or false they might be, only served to divert them from practical, home subjects of the greatest importance to their real interest and improvement, now seem very much surprised upon waking up to find the State dwindling down to nothing comparatively, and about to be taken by the Freesoilers. If they had thought about this twenty years ago, if they had let the "Virginia and Kentucky resolutions" alone, if they had urged the people to build a school-house at every cross-road, and to go to making railroads, hats, shoes, shirts, plows, hoes, cloths, gimlets, clocks, pins, &c., &c., Virginia now might have been just what New-York is, or considerably ahead. What a powerful argument in favor of internal improvements, of the development of home resources, and home industry, does the example of Virginia, with its results, afford. Let the Southern States profit by it.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE WALLABOUT.

The filling in of the section to be devoted to the barracks will be completed by September, when the work of erecting the buildings will commence. The bottom being of soft mud, all the foundations will be laid upon strong piles. The whole area of this section is 700 feet long by 400 wide, and the barracks to be erected will furnish accommodations for 350 marines, besides the necessary houses for the officers. The plans are not yet entirely perfected, but will not vary essentially from the following: The main entrance building will occupy the centre of the plot, upon the avenue line, which will be divided into a room for the officers of the day on the left, and an armory on the right of the arch. The officers' quarters will occupy the South-east corner, with all the requisite rooms, and the Commandant's house the southwest corner of the ground, having stables and coach-house to the northward, upon the west line, and a garden [illegible] feet attached. The prison building, 48x48 feet, will occupy the northwest corner, and the north side will be devoted to a line of barracks, of two-story [illegible], divided as follows: Six dormitories, 33½x[illegible] [illegible], a dining room 120x22½ feet, to which will be joined a kitchen, bake-house, store-room, and pantry: this line will be completed by a garden in the form of a parallelogram, with the out-houses behind it. The Hospital building will be placed low down on the east side. The parade ground in the centre will be 492x[illegible] feet, with a graveled walk 14 feet wide all round it, separated by a line of posts and chains, and a series of grass plots will ornament the front, or avenue line. The work has not yet been advertised for contract, but will be, soon. The remaining portion of the flats will be improved by the erection of other buildings as they are required, by the construction of timber basins, &c., all which, when completed, will obliterate the recollection of the unsightly and malodorous Wallabout Flats, and materially enhance the value of house lots in that vicinity.

The New Plenipotentiary to China—Governor Walker and the Affairs of Kansas—Our Foreign Relations—Gen. Thomas to go Abroad—The State Department—Court of Claims—General Walker.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

Washington, Monday, April 6, 1857.

Dr. Parker, estimable as he is acknowledged to be in every respect, and invaluable as his services have been to our merchants in China, is scarcely considered here to be precisely the man whom the exigencies of the moment require as our Plenipotentiary in China. My opinion is that he will be speedily replaced by some one of much superior ability and nerve, and who shall be better fitted to encounter emergencies as they may arise, in the complicated state of foreign relations in the Celestial Empire. Our representation abroad is everywhere extremely weak; but it is particularly necessary that new arrangements should be made for those points where the property of our merchants is unusually exposed. Urged at home, as the United States Government is by England, to follow her belligerent initiative in relation to China, under pretext of civilization and progress, it cannot be doubted that every pretext will be used on the spot to force us into hostilities. Under such circumstances we require a "first-rate man"—one alike endowed with prudence and force of character—to prevent needless outbreaks, make capital for increased commercial privileges out of the folly of Great Britain and France, and, at the same time, not offend the latter powers by impertinent interference with their concerns. The question of a Minister to China and his duties, will doubtless be settled ere the close of this week.

Before the Times of to-morrow is distributed among its readers, Mr. Robert J. Walker will probably have reached your City, and have settled, for the few remaining days of his sojourn in the East, at the New-York Hotel. The industry which he has brought to bear, since his acceptance of the Governorship of Kansas, in studying up the details of affairs in that Territory has been next to unexampled. His desire is to commence his administration, not only thoroughly booked up as to men and things, but as far possible with a "sliding scale" plan for every contingency. No other kind of plan could properly be deemed a wise one. It is not easy to foresee what the action of any of the parties in Kansas will hereafter be in relation to the Slavery difficulty. If the Convention which meets in September shall fairly represent the views of the majority of the inhabitants, the course of the Governor will be comparatively clear and easy. But what colored delegates will appear at that Convention? Will the Free-State population throw away their vantage ground, and abstain from action in the premises, or will they strain every nerve so to expose fraud in the census returns as to secure a proper election of Delegates? Can Border Ruffianism be efficiently discouraged, or must it ride rampant over all obstacles, as the bloody-eyed Missourians, at Brown's Hotel, lately threatened? If, when the census is laid before the Governor, he is convinced that gross wrong has been perpetrated, will he divide the aggregate amount by 60, and abide the consequences; or will he refuse to perform the part assigned him by the late law? If he does not perform it, who will? And how will his implied veto be received and overcome? To what point will aggression be allowed to go, before it is met and put down by force of arms? Clear-headed and energetic as Governor Walker has always proved himself to be, the embarrassments of his position justify him fully in taking sufficient time to pause and reflect. The whole country looks to him with a degree of confidence which must be agreeable to himself, and powerful as an incentive to such a display of vigor and independence as shall cast the memory of his predecessors into the shade.

Now that the worst worry, hurry and bustle of appointments is over, the whole attention of Mr. Buchanan is being turned to our foreign relations. They will occupy most of his time for some days, and ere the close of the week, I shall have much that is interesting to communicate. It may be doubted whether more industry has ever been displayed by an Executive, during the first month of his official career than has been exhibited by the present Chief Magistrate. This is partly owing to the fact that long experience has caused him, as well as most members of his Cabinet, to have such settled convictions upon most subjects of public interest, that consultation is facilitated and speedy decisions are insured.

It is, as yet, uncertain what disposition will be made of General Thomas, but it is generally understood that he will be given a foreign mission, for which he is eminently qualified by his past position. Mr. Appleton, whose health is still far from good, has entered upon the duties of his office, much to the satisfaction of the President, who reposes in him the fullest confidence, and can consult with him with even more freedom than with General Cass. In every respect the appointment of Mr. Appleton is deemed highly significant of what relations are likely to subsist hereafter in the State Department.

Relief is afforded to a certain class of our industrials by the suspension of the meetings of the Court of Claims until the first Monday in May. They need the recess, in order to consider sundry important cases which demand their full and exclusive attention.

The Nicaragua news is partially credited, though all reports of Walker's victories must be taken cum grano salis. He has, undoubtedly, obtained more or less important successes, but they will doubtless be diminished in proportion as the details shall be wholly known.

[FROM OUR REGULAR TELEGRAPHIC REPORTER.]

Washington, Monday, April 6.

Two Naval Boards of Inquiry have been ordered to be instituted here in addition to the one now sitting. The names of the officers have not been divulged. The order of the cases has been changed. Those of furloughed and on-leave officers are to be taken up before proceeding further with the cases of dropped officers. The case of Lieut. Wager was finished to-day and the decision forwarded to the Secretary of the Navy.

Captain Stringham, a member of the present Board, has been ordered to the command of the Charlestown Navy-Yard.

Our affairs with China continue to occupy the attention of the Administration, since it has been known in Washington that the British Government has appointed Lord Elgin as Minister Plenipotentiary to China. Our Government has determined to send one thither at an early day, but owing to the great distance of China, and the time that will necessarily be involved in receiving and transmitting official communications, the Administration is solicitous in selecting a minister in whom the utmost confidence can be placed, and who will be governed by a wise discretion, considering the general interests involved, including our increasing commerce in that part of the world.

It is erroneously stated in the newspapers that Col. E. E. Lane, the nephew of the President of the United States, who recently died at Lancaster, Penn., contracted his disease at the National Hotel, in this city, about the time of the Inauguration. So far from this being true, he was in good health for several weeks after his return home, and his death was occasioned by the effects of a severe cold.

James Tyrrell[?], an eminent Pole, died suddenly last night of disease of the heart. He had been for several years an Assistant Examiner at the Patent Office.

The President has made the following appointments: James H. Rittner[?], Receiver of Public Moneys at Hudson, Wisconsin, vice Hoyt, resigned; Wm. [illegible] Galloway, Register of the Land Office, and Nelson[?] Byron Snyder[?], Receiver of Public Monies, at Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

The President has appointed and reappointed the following Postmasters:

John Fraser, at New-Bedford.

Thomas Y. Young, at Saratoga Springs, vice Mr. Close, whose commission has expired.

John M. Talbot, at Indianapolis, vice Mr. Wick whose commission has expired.

The Circuit Court made a decision to-day, sustaining the Building Associations charging more than the legal rate of interest, on the ground that their loans to members are in the nature of a contract; and are, therefore, not usurious.

Mr. Stanton, the newly appointed Secretary of State for Kansas, left this afternoon for that Territory.

THE TEHUANTEPEC ROUTE AND THE SLOO GRANT—GOV. WALKER AND KANSAS AFFAIRS—DR. PETER PARKER AND THE CHINESE—THE UNION, ETC.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times.

Washington, Saturday, April 4, 1857.

It was recently announced with much pomp and circumstance, that the road at the Isthmus of Tehuantepec had been completed within the prescriptions of the Sloo Grant, and a wagon had been driven over it, before the expiration of the time limited by the contract. Following close upon the heels of this statement, assurance was given to the public, that a regular mail would be immediately opened by that route. Interested parties may be justified in giving the best possible coloring to their own projects, but as this matter concerns the whole community, and may involve the interests of others, and besides those directing a large speculation, it is proper that exaggerations should be exposed. In the first place, Congress did not authorise a mail to be transported by the Tehuantepec route, and, therefore, no contract can be made for any such purpose. A memorial was submitted by Gen. Rusk, containing a proposition on this subject, but no action was taken upon it.

That point being disposed of, the next question is, how Mr. Sloo, and the parties operating with him, fulfilled the condition of the grant which he obtained from Mexico? This is answered distinctly in the negative here, and by those who not only claim to be well informed, but who have access to the best intelligence. The opinion is predicted, however, upon the extent of information which has reached Washington. The contract expressly stipulated that a plank road on the Isthmus should be constructed within a given time. It is not claimed in the accounts which have been published, that any such road has been built, and it therefore remains to be seen whether Mexico will accept the driving of a horse and buggy across as a satisfactory execution of the obligation. What has been done now, was done before by others; and the pretence then exposed itself. Hence, a repetition of the experiment would not seem to be very encouraging, unless Mexican eyes have become suddenly blinded to their own rights.

When Mr. Sloo obtained this grant from Mexico, the arrangement was that a share of the benefits should be appropriated to that Government, and $600,000 paid down as an advance upon the prospective interest. Mr. Lee, who acted as the agent of Mr. Sloo, made a negotiation through Mr. Falconnet, agent of the Barings, for the sale of drafts upon Mr. Sloo, by which this consideration should be paid. It was understood in Mexico that Mr. Law and other capitalists of New-York were interested in the enterprise, and when, therefore, Judge Conkling, the United States Minister to Mexico, was called upon for an opinion in regard to the solvency of the parties, he did not hesitate to assure Mr. Falconnet he thought that the drafts would be paid. Mr. Hargous, of New-York, was introduced into the money negotiation, and became the assignee of the lien on the grant, made by Sloo's attorney as security for the advance. The drafts were not paid at maturity, and are still believed to be held by Mr. Hargous, who now stands in the double capacity to the Tehuantepec route of being a contestant against Sloo under the grant to Garay, and an assignee under Sloo himself.

There are indications that the Mexican Government will not take the nominal connection between the two Oceans as a substantial or fair fulfillment of the stipulation, and may resume its original authority over the route in consequence of this failure. Should that course be taken, then it would become necessary to refund the advance of $600,000, which, it may be supposed, would be readily assumed by parties who would rejoice at the opportunity of standing in the shoes of Mr. Sloo. This subject is likely to be involved in some complication before it is all over, and it is not an improbability that the Government may step in finally and negotiate Tehuantepec into its own hands, notwithstanding the terms of the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty concerning the Isthmus passes. We will see, when the present pressure is relieved, in which way the Administration will strive to untie this knot, or whether, imitating the example of Alexander, it will cut it.

Although Governor Walker's proclamation touching Kansas was pacific, and designed to address the "intelligence and patriotism of the whole people" in that Territory, it must not be understood that it is either his purpose, or that of the Administration, to withdraw the military forces, or to hesitate in appealing to that resource should the necessity be apparent and urgent. The head quarters are transferred from Leavenworth to St. Louis, and a portion of the troops will be changed in order to disconnect the new Governor with any of the former prejudices that may yet linger, and remove associations that might be disturbing. The aggregate force at the command of the Governor will be slightly increased, and he has full authority to employ it in any exigency that may require such interposition. All these contingencies were fully discussed in Cabinet in Mr. Walker's presence, and with his full communion and concurrence.

Mr. Stanton, the Territorial Secretary, will start for Kansas on Monday, and with the expectation, which is countenanced here, and may have been among the reasons for acceptance, of being one of the first Senators from the new State. It is within the range of common possibilities, notwithstanding all the parade made over the appointments, that Mr. Walker may see reasons for reconsidering his determination, and be very willing to get the chance of transferring his energies and ambition elsewhere. Mr. Stanton will have been on the ground nearly a month before he proposes to leave here, and within that time, developments may take place modifying the views of himself and the Administration. He desires the Chinese mission, if advantages can be connected with it, which the present law does not afford, and which, if agreed upon, would require the assent of the next Congress. Mr. Walker is a man of splendid visions, and the Flowery Kingdom offers a field for their indulgence.

Dr. Peter Parker is considered behind the times by our progressive young President, and our energetic young Premier. The Chinese, who draw their social distinctions finer than we do, look upon a man who cuts the wens of the canaille and administers potions, as incompetent to embody diplomatic dignity. Hence, it is said, his official influence is circumscribed, and the public interests thus suffer, through a functionary who is divested of power to serve them, through a false personal prejudice. If these reasons did not exist, others would be found for "rotating" the Doctor. His place is wanted, and the Administration has got the idea of playing a strong card among the Celestials. As for Chinese, any man who can read his alphabet backwards, will answer. The late Attorney-General, (Koosshing,) who is supposed to be of Chinese derivation, has been suggested with others in this connection, and is recommended by the fact that he handled the cross-sticks with Gov. Keying during the Tylerian era. By the way, Keying was something of a wag, and when Koosshing, who was not then so proficient in Chinese as he afterwards became—at a State dinner, pointed to a savory dish which had partly tickled his palate, and said, inquiringly, "Quack, quack," the Governor shook his head, and replied, with much gusto, "Bow, wow," very much to the ease of the Commissioner's stomach.

[illegible] days ago it was understood to be [illegible] among Americans say, that Mr. Appleton [illegible] in the Union, as all causes of differ- [illegible] accomodated. Suddenly, however, the [illegible] became tangled worse than before, and failed. Then Mr. Buchanan turned his back upon the whole concern, and told the managers they might go—to Paradise if they could. In this emergency, Mr. Harris, now residing in one of the Border-Ruffian counties of Missouri, formerly a member of Congress from Virginia, formerly an editor of Calhoun's paper, the Constitution, in this city; and afterwards Chargé d'Affaires, by Calhoun's appointment, to Buenos Ayres, was pitched upon by the proprietors as an acceptable person to serve their interests and to relieve them of a bad odor which other connections had occasioned. There will be a nominal transfer of ownership in order to justify the declaration that the paper has changed hands, but those who know Wendell, McGuire, and the other jobbers who bought it to be used as a profitable auxiliary to their schemes, will believe the story, just as they did that put out under Nicholson's[?] regime, when he assured the public they held no interest, and while he in fact was their instrument. Mr. Smith, of Virginia, who was connected with Tucker's Sentinel here, is to officiate as Assistant Editor. So the organ will begin by playing "Old Virginny never tire." Both these gentlemen are conceded fair parts, but the Potomac is not considered in danger of conflagration by their contact. Mr. Harris is an amiable and excellent person, charged with Virginia abstractions, and armed with the Resolutions of '98 against all dissenting opinions. Every reader of the Union should be provided with a microscope to discover into what minute particles it is possible for a real Virginia editor to split fine hairs.

Connecticut State Election.

PROBABLE SUCCESS OF THE UNION TICKET.

New-Haven, Monday, April 6.

The election returns are scattering, owing to the storm, which has also diminished the vote. The opinion is that the Union State ticket will be elected.

The Union candidates for the Legislature are probably elected.

To Congress, Mr. Clarke, in the Hartford District, and Mr. Dean, in the New-London District, both Union, are elected. The Fairfield District is doubtful, nothing having been heard from the Litchfield part of it, but it is supposed that Mr. Arnold, Administration, is elected.

Of the three Senators in this county, the Union Party have probably elected Peters in the Sixth District, and the Administration Party English in the Fourth District, and perhaps Spencer in the Fifth District.

The chances for Sheriff of this County are in favor of the Administration candidate by about 100 majority. The Administration Representative is chosen from this city by about 200 majority.

Hartford elects two Republican Representatives, and gives on the State ticket 30 majority to the Democrats.

Ezra Clark, Jr., opposition, is reelected to Congress.

The Democrats have elected their Senator in the First District, and the Republicans in the Second. The Third District is very close.

The House and Senate are believed to be Republican.

Enough has not yet been heard in regard to the State ticket to form any opinion as to the result.

Gen. Cazneau on Nicaraguan Affairs.

GEN. WALKER'S LATE VICTORIES—IMPORTANT LETTERS INTERCEPTED—INTERFERENCE OF THE BRITISH IN THE TRANSIT.

St. Nicholas House, Monday, April 6, 1857.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Your reporter has omitted one point in my remarks with respect to the news from Gen. Walker. I stated, and repeat, that Don Fermin Fair[?], the Minister from Nicaragua, and other gentlemen, besides myself, who had particular reason to expect letters from the seat of war, had failed to receive them. I was much occupied with several friends [illegible], and was disinclined to give names, but I distinctly informed him that some letters had been received.

I did not enter into any particulars as to how, when or by whom we believed our letters had been intercepted, and am not disposed to enter into any discussion at present; but I will observe that Mrs. Henningsen received a note from her husband, Gen. Henningsen, last Saturday evening—directed to her under cover to a friend—and dated March 19. In this letter Gen. Henningsen refers to a letter written the day before, giving a detailed account of the battle of the 17th, which letter has not come to hand. I saw the note of March 19.

I also received at the same time—the 4th inst.—a letter from Gen. Wheat, dated from the San Juan River, Feb. 25, purporting to have come by the Tennessee, which arrived here about the 20th ult.

On comparing the inexplicable tardiness of some letters and the non-arrival of others which we are convinced left Rivas and San Juan in time to arrive here by the Texas, with the contents of those which have reached their destination by private hands, and with the reliable communications previously received, the friends of Nicaragua in this City have come almost unanimously to certain conclusions respecting the condition of affairs in Nicaragua.

If the steamer Texas had duly touched at San Juan del Norte on her return from Aspinwall, [illegible] would have even now direct confirmation of the following important facts:

1\. That President Walker is now at the head of the de facto and only Government of Nicaragua.

2\. That having used Patricio Rivas as an implement for the ruin of his country, the invaders are prepared to set aside the feeble show of a Government they set up in his name and divide the territory of Nicaragua among the neighboring States.

3\. That the most able and popular of the native Nicaraguan generals has declared against the designing invaders, and it is quite probable that the next trustworthy advices will announce him in arms to assist General Walker in driving them out of the country.

4\. The partition of Nicaragua was to enure to the special benefit of the allies of England, and was planned under British direction, in the same spirit that the British officials at Greytown abetted the suppression of the Nicaragua transit.

5\. The motive of the British Government in aiding and encouraging the destruction of that important highway to the Pacific is to confine our trade and travel to California to the one route by Panama, which, we have fatal evidence, is under the irresponsible control of the negro subjects and allies of England.

6\. There are strong grounds for believing that some British capitalists have views of their own relative to the Nicaragua transit, and are making efforts to monopolize and control for their private interests this peculiarly favorable route to the Pacific. The representative of large moneyed interests in Europe has proposed negotiations with the view of obtaining the command of that transit in return for material aid.

7\. The allies having been routed at the battle of Quaresma, (March 17th,) with a loss so decisive that they will be unable to renew the contest with the slightest hopes of success, the parties interested will now demand of the United States Government the immediate re-establishment of the Nicaragua line of transit under the guarantees of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and both this government and that of England are under distinct obligations to "protect it from interruption," under the convention of April 19, 1850. This mutual engagement of Great Britain and the United States has been strangely overlooked by the American people, but it exists in binding force nevertheless, and its enforcement at this crisis may have an incalculable effect on the security and advancement of American interests on all the transits of the American Isthmus.

COURT CALENDAR—THIS DAY.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—April 6.

Judge NELSON opened the April term of this Court this morning, and called the calendar of Jury causes. No cause was ready for trial, but an inquest or two was taken, and to-morrow morning the calendar will be called peremptorily.

The Jury were then discharged until to-morrow, and the Judge then took up a motion for an injunction in the case of Gustave Struve vs. Frederick Schroedter and John [illegible].—This is a copyright case, the plaintiff claiming that the defendants are selling a History of the World in German, written by the plaintiff, in violation of his copyright.

The defendants claim that the plaintiff, before obtaining the copyright, made an agreement with William Schuiter to publish a book, which is the same [illegible] in question; that Schuiter did publish [illegible] becoming unfortunate in business, he [illegible] that he had executed a chattel [illegible] upon the stereotype plates of the book in [illegible] with other things, and that they were afterwards sold at public auction, and purchased by the defendants, and that there was no copyright of the book up to that time. Judge NELSON, after hearing argument of counsel, denied the motion for an injunction.

For complainant, Mr. White; for defendants, Mr. [illegible].

Decision in Admiralty.
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.
Before Judge Betts.

[illegible]

Jonathan Hawkins vs. The ship James Henry.—The libel in this case was filed by the owner of the sloop Advocate, to recover the damage occasioned to her by a collision with the James Henry, which occurred March 16, 1852, on the North River, near the mouth of Spuyten Duyvil Creek. Both vessels were beating up the river in broad daylight on a flood-tide, with a fresh breeze from the north. Both vessels were on their tack towards the east shore, when the James Henry being the farthest north, and having approached so near the shore as to justify her in considering that stretch to be run out, though some witnesses testified that she might have gone a few yards farther, she came about on her starboard tack, and immediately the two vessels came together, the bowsprit of the James Henry striking the starboard bow of the Advocate.

Held by the Court—That the Advocate could not lawfully press upon the James Henry or drive her to a dangerous proximity to the shore, nor place herself in a position which would prevent or impede the action of the James Henry in getting about upon the opposite tack.

That the James Henry was entitled to change her course when her master or pilot, in the exercise of a sound discretion, deemed she had gone as near the shore as was prudent, but she could not lawfully be brought suddenly about on the opposite tack in the [illegible] of the Advocate, or in such manner as to disable the latter from avoiding her.

That where the libellant had ample breadth and depth of water at his command, he cannot justify [illegible] the opposite vessel to the nearest practicable point from the shore, but must leave reasonable [illegible] for her pilot to determine the proper point at which to bring her about.

That the James Henry was kept upon her tack as far in shore as was required under the circumstances, and that the primary fault was with the Advocate in [illegible] about when the James Henry did, or bearing away under her stern.

Libel dismissed with costs.

For libellant, Messrs. Beebe, Dean and Donohue. For claimant, Mr. Norton and Mr. Haskett.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—April 6.
Before Hon. Justice Clerke.

INSURANCE NOTES—LEGALITY OF TRANSFER.

Almon Marsh vs. J. E. Brett et al.—The defendants gave their note to the International Insurance Company, of which the plaintiff was president, for the premium on a policy of insurance on a vessel. Subsequently the president loaned the company some $[illegible],000 and, without any resolution on the part of the directors, took this, with other notes, to reimburse himself. The notes, however, were regularly indorsed to him by the company. The defendants refused to pay their note on maturity, setting up illegality of transfer, and denying the legal organization of the Company.

For plaintiff, J. W. Stevens; for defendant, G. Dean.

Judge CLERKE rendered the following decision:

CLERKE, J.—I do not think that the defendants should have availed themselves of any of the alleged defects in the incorporation of the International Insurance Company, in an action commenced by the Company. It would have been sufficient for [illegible] to prove the charter and the user under it, [illegible] the plaintiff in this action was a bona fide holder, he would have been entitled to recover, notwithstanding such defects. But I have as little doubt that he is not a bona fide holder, or rather [illegible] legally a holder at all of this and other notes. Gillett vs. Phillips, 3 Kernan 114, settles the question. Marsh, the plaintiff in this action, was the President, and a Director of the Company, and took notes of which this was one, to the amount exceeding $1,000, sufficient to satisfy his claim against the Company, $1,700 or [illegible] for money therefor advanced to them.

This was clearly in violation of the statute, (1 R. S., sections 8, 9.) It was "a transfer not authorized by a previous resolution of the Board of Directors," and [illegible] does not fall within the exceptional clause of the [illegible] for the notes were not transferred to "a [illegible] without notice." A President or Director [illegible] presumed to be cognizant of the absence of such authority, and this will be presumed in an action brought [illegible] against a party to the note, as well as in an [illegible] commenced against him for the recovery of the note by a receiver. Judge Gardiner in delivering the opinion of the Court in Gillett vs. Phillips [illegible] that the contract in "that case was not only unauthorized but illegal. No action could have been [illegible] by Phillips against the Bank for the price [illegible] by him for the note, although he had sold the [illegible] to redeem the circulating paper of the Bank. A [illegible] of this kind is expressly prohibited by [illegible], is therefore absolutely void, and no right to or property in the thing transferred accrues to the [illegible] party. Judgment for defendants with costs.

The Balance Docks Declared Nuisances.
SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.
Before Hon. Justice Roosevelt.

[illegible] and George V. Hecker vs. The New-York [illegible] Dock Company.—This case, the facts of which were fully reported in the TIMES at the time of the hearing, was decided yesterday. His Honor rendered the following opinion, which sufficiently explains itself:

ROOSEVELT, J.—The plaintiffs, who are the owners of the Croton Mills, and a large amount of other real estate in the neighborhood of Pike-slip, on the East River, complain that the defendants, about a year ago, stationed in the slip a floating dock, permanently secured to one of the piers, greatly incommoding the plaintiffs' business, increasing the expense of cartage and impairing the value of their property, and they ask for a judgment of the Court to abate "the said nuisance," as they call it, and to restrain the defendants, by injunction, from further obstructing or incumbering "the said basin, or said bulkhead or piers."

The Dock Company, in their answer, among other things, deny that their works are an obstruction to the public highways, or that they are a public nuisance; or that they are "productive of great injury to the plaintiffs or any other citizens;" on the contrary, they insist that their occupation for the lifting, raising, and sustaining vessels which require repairs, is a lawful commercial use of the pier, basin, and bulkhead.

On the trial, which consumed the larger portion of a week, a great number of shipowners, mechanics, and other persons, were examined as witnesses, on both sides of the controversy; the result of whose testimony shows clearly that the dock, to some extent, is the cause of special injury to the Messrs. Hecker, for which, if it be a public nuisance, not authorized by law, they have a special right individually, on their own separate behalf, to ask relief at the hands of the Court. For although a public nuisance may be abated by anybody, and without suit, (5 Rep. 101—[illegible]) the more orderly mode is by application to the courts and the officers of the law. The question, then, to be determined is whether the dock of the defendants, moored and permanently established in one of the public slips is, in legal contemplation, a public nuisance.

To place a floating-dock in the river, it is said, in a note to Hawkins' Pleas of the Crown, (vol. 1, c. 75, sec. 11,) although beneficial in repairing ships, is a common nuisance. So a common wagoner, however useful and necessary may be his occupation, who continually obstructs the passage of a street in the exercise of his business, may be indicted as a nuisance. ([illegible] Reports, 687.)

[illegible] the inhabitants of a town had by custom a [illegible] place, in common, for their cattle, which was [illegible] by another, it was held (5 Rep. 73, 9 Rep. 113) that any one inhabitant might have an action against the usurping individual as for a nuisance. In the case of Corning and Lowerre, (6 Johnson's Chancery Reports, 439,) an injunction was granted, as for a nuisance, against a person who was erecting his house partly on the street, to the prejudice of the common right of an adjoining owner.

The evidence in the present case shows that the business of the defendants, although highly beneficial to the commerce of the port, is, in fact and in its very nature, a monopoly. It is an exclusive appropriation to the few of rights belonging equally to the many.

The slip is part of the common highway. It is a continuation either of the street or of the river. The piers are its incidents, and necessary to its enjoyment, as a place for loading and unloading. The slip therefore, comes within the authorities cited, in both respects—as a land highway, and as a water highway. It is a permanent exclusive appropriation by the defendants of the south half of the pier and the north half of the slip. No vessel can enter it [illegible] boat or dry-dock, or for any other purpose [illegible] repairs, and then only on paying such toll as the defendants may be pleased to [illegible]. [illegible] place, chosen [illegible]. A monopoly is thus [illegible] for one use and for one person.

The assumption of a franchise or exclusive privilege, or, in other words, the setting up of a monopoly, unless sanctioned by the Legislature, is in law a nuisance. The recent case of the Ninth-avenue Railroad, (3 Abbott, 392,) decided at General Term, is a direct authority to that effect. Now, the defendants do not pretend to hold a legislative grant. They do not possess even an ordinance of the Common Council. Their only warrant, as the proof shows, is the permit, and that not in writing, of a dock-master—an officer "legally authorized," the answer alleges, "to assign ships and other vessels to berths and locations," but certainly not intrusted with the sovereign power of granting monopolies. The object of the dock-master's office, however much perverted, is to secure, not to sell or infringe the equal rights of all; to prevent encroachments, and not to create or defend them. His duty it is to see, from time to time, that equal justice is done between contending applicants, and not to relieve himself from recurring labor by assigning the whole, or the greater part of a slip at once and forever, to a particular favorite. It is obvious, besides, that a floating dock, immovable except in a perpendicular sense, could never have been intended to be embraced in the terms "ships or vessels." The whole scope of the ordinance shows that those words had reference to steamers and sailing craft, whether small or large, which had occasion to load and unload freight or passengers, and which were constantly coming and going. A floating dock, firmly moored to one place, is a stationary structure. It rises and falls with the tide, but has no horizontal motion. By a bold figure of speech, and in a figurative sense, it may, perhaps, be called a vessel, as the human structure itself, in the same manner, is also sometimes designated by that appellation. But the dock is no more a vessel, in the sense of the ordinance, than the man or the woman. And even if it could be so considered, no officer, as was held by Judge Mitchell, in the case of another of these docks, (12 How., 44,) has the power to allow even a ship to lie permanently in any place needed for the accommodation of vessels in active employment.

Floating docks are no doubt needed. They must be moored somewhere. The evidence shows that they can be placed elsewhere in the harbor without injuriously obstructing the ordinary operations of loading and unloading.

Other locations perhaps may, in some respects, be less convenient. That is a consideration, however, to be brought not to the courts, but to the Legislature, the body which alone represents, and which, to attain a greater good, can alone, within certain limits, regulate and even waive the common rights. All that a judge can do is to pronounce upon the claims of the defendants under the law as it stands—those claims permanently to monopolize a large portion of a number of the public slips, forming part of a great maritime highway, and indirectly, without the sanction and without the safeguards of law, to levy such tolls for a special use as the Dock Company may see fit to exact, cannot be sustained. And above all, the plea of a dockmaster's fiat as the warrant for their commencement and continuance, can never be accepted. The despotism, as it is, is sufficiently obnoxious—extended to the proposed limits it would be intolerable. Even the Common Council have no such power. By the act of April 16, 1830, they were authorized to pass ordinances designating, from time to time, particular wharves, piers and slips for the particular use "of particular classes or descriptions of ships or vessels." But no authority was given to favor one particular ship or vessel to the prejudice of every other of the same class. So that, even were we to regard a floating dock as a ship or vessel, the Common Council would have no power to give it an exclusive privilege as a permanent stationary fixture. But a dock, as we have seen, is not a ship or vessel, and the Common Council, as its ordinances show, have exercised no such power and made no such grant. Shall one of their subordinate officers, then, be permitted to assume a jurisdiction which his superiors do not claim? The late report in the Legislature of the State, on the subject of Harbor Masters, is not calculated to encourage advances in that direction. Nor is there anything in the history of monopolies in general to make it proper that Courts should particularly favor them. Their natural tendency is to generate corruption, which, in its turn, accelerates the growth of its parent. Even in royal hands the power was found too great for human virtue. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, its exercise had become so ruinous, and had attained, as the law books tell us, such "an enormous height," that Parliament, at length, was compelled to interpose, and to declare that all monopolies, however sanctioned, except in certain special enumerated cases, unless granted by express statute, should be null and void. (21 James I., ch. 3.)

If a dockmaster may grant the exclusive use of one pier and slip, he may also of another, and another, until the whole, if properly applied for, shall have been parceled out to his liberal favorites, who will then be invested with the sole privilege of repairing all the ships and vessels in the harbor of New-York, with no restraint as to price except such as their own interest may dictate. Eleven such exclusive appropriations, by dockmasters' fiats, have already taken place, and some millions of property, it is suggested, are thus depending on a dockmaster's will. We may well ask, can this be law? Can it be that the common rights of all may be thus invaded, or the special rights (if rights they be) of the law thus secured? To answer the question, it would seem, needs only to state it.

I have delayed the decision of this case in the hope that the whole subject of floating docks in the harbor of New-York would be brought before the Legislature, which had been in session for the last three months. To that body, as already stated, it properly belongs to allow and regulate such structures, to fix their location, to prescribe and define their duties, and to limit the tolls they may exact.

The officers of the company not having seen fit to make any application in that quarter, the court has no alternative but to apply the law as it stands, and to direct a decree to be entered for the removal of the defendants' dock within six months after due notice given, but without costs to either party.

DECISIONS.

THE BOGUS WEBSTER FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

George W. Brown vs. Loring Pickering and wife and Charles N. Bean.—This case, the trial of which was commenced in December last and ended on the 4th of March before the Court, and reported in full in the TIMES at that time, was decided to-day in favor of the plaintiff. The action was brought to set aside a sale by plaintiff of house and lot located on the corner of Lafayette-avenue and St. Felix-street, Brooklyn, to defendant, Pickering, in the month of April, 1855, on the ground of fraud. The deed was made out in the name of the defendant, Bean, who subsequently transferred it to the wife of defendant, Pickering.

The property sold was valued at $7,900, subject to a mortgage of $3,550. Plaintiff received in payment for the property 71 shares of the stock of the Webster Fire Insurance Company, New-York, upon the representation of defendants that it was at par in the market; that all the capital was paid in, and the Company was in successful operation. The gist of what was proved upon the trial is thus graphically set forth in the Judge's minutes, which explains the whole transaction:

1. Representations proved substantially as charged.
2. Plaintiff was induced thereby to convey.
3. The representations were false and the Company a swindle from the beginning. The mortgage, the satisfaction of, and the checks were fraudulent.
4. Bean & Pickering knew the stock was worthless, (one was a stockholder; had some of stock and sold it; said it did not cost him anything.) The other was boon companion of Dr. Blaisdell—the leading spirit in the affair was a broker; said he knew all about the Company from the start. If so, he knew it was a swindle.

It seems that the stock was not tendered to defendants until this suit was commenced, and the case will be carried up to have that knot untied.

For plaintiff—Messrs. John P. Troy and Isaac Van Wagoner. For defendant—L. B. Marsh.

The Trust German Williamsburgh Building Fund and Accumulating Association vs. John Ruppel and wife and others.—For plaintiff with $90 allowance. G. Miller, for plaintiff; J. Lax for defendants.

Same vs. Joseph Gross and Mary his wife and others.—Decree $60 allowance. Same attorneys.

Townsend vs. Townsend.—Motion for security for costs denied without costs.

Same vs. John Ruppel and wife and Adam Schlegel and wife and others.—Tried by court. Judgment for plaintiff for foreclosure. The $180 costs in former suit to be allowed. Referred to Samuel L. Harris, Esq., to compute amount due, including $130—10 per cent. allowance. Same attorneys.

Same vs. Ignatius Holzer, Mary Gross and others.—Decree, $45 allowance. Same attorneys.

Same vs. Elizabeth Neiss, widow, &c., and others.—Decree allowance, $60.

Joseph P. Cregan vs. The Fulton Fire Insurance Company.—New trial denied with costs. For plaintiffs—S. D. Lewis. For defendants—Jared Sparks and J. V. Loomis.

S. Theodore Dushey vs. R. F. [illegible].—Judgment for plaintiff, $500, with interest from Nov. 11, 1856. Let plaintiff's attorney draw up written decision. Defendant to have 20 days to make a case. Plaintiff's proceedings in the meantime to be stayed.

Wm. H. Howard vs. Robert Prince.—Motion for new trial denied.

Asahel Soper and others vs. Charles T. Crow.—Order of reference to Hon. John Greenwood.

James H. Watson and Gordon C. Adams vs. Catharine Quinnan.—Order of reference to Samuel L. Harris, Esq.

Charles Burrell vs. Thos. Sharp and John J. Mahony.—Judgment for plaintiff, $109, with interest from March 15, 1856, together with costs—$10 allowance.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Connecticut State Election took place yesterday, and the returns already received indicate the success of the Union Ticket. The storm, however, diminished the vote considerably, besides interfering with the receipt of the returns. The result will probably be known to-day.

We learn from Washington that two additional Naval Boards of Inquiry have been ordered to be instituted at that place, although the names of the officers have not yet been divulged. The order of the cases has also been changed—those of furloughed and on-leave officers taking the precedence of the cases of dropped officers.

The telegraph informs us of two dreadful casualties by fire in this State. The house of a Mr. Grimshaw, near Cape Vincent, was burnt on Saturday morning, and Mr. Grimshaw, his wife, and six children perished. On Sunday morning a dwelling in Oswego, occupied by a French family named Pilonsta, was burnt, and three children, one 17 years old, perished.

It is stated on the authority of letters from missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church that a furious war is raging in Liberia, in the vicinity of Cape Palmas, between the colonists and the natives. Thirty-seven American houses and much property are stated to have been destroyed, and twenty-eight lives had been lost. All missionary and business matters were at a stand.

A summary of the business done in the Legislature yesterday, will be found elsewhere. There was nothing of special interest.

Strenuous efforts are being made, it is said, to defeat the Anti-ticket swindling law now before the Legislature.

The Tammany Society met last night and mustered strong. Our report of their proceedings states that nearly 300 members were present, and that the utmost harmony and enthusiasm prevailed. The general sentiment of the Society was in favor of the plan of providing for reforming the primary meetings, which was presented at the last meeting of the Sachems by Hon. John Kelly;—but it was deemed advisable to leave the whole matter to the free and untrammeled action of the Sachems who meet to-day at noon.

The steamship Illinois left yesterday for Aspinwall, with about six hundred passengers. She anchored below on account of the storm, and probably went to sea this morning.

It is reported that the steamers of the Nicaragua line have not only given up carrying Fillibusters to Walker, but have withdrawn from the California passenger trade also; the Tennessee will probably be put on the Galveston and New-Orleans route.

The April term of the United States Circuit Court was opened yesterday morning by Judge Nelson. A motion for an injunction involving the copyright of Struve's Weltgeschichte was heard and denied.

Capt. Rynders, the U. S. Marshal, appointed four Deputy Marshals yesterday. He has eight appointments still to make, which he expects to make to-day. He intimates that he will probably oust all the former Deputies.

The Councilmen's Special Committee on the Relief of Broadway presented their report last evening, asking leave to sit again, but terminated their existence somewhat ingloriously—the Board accepting their report, but discharging them.

Wilson Small, Esq., was last night nominated by Mayor Wood, and confirmed by the Aldermen, as Receiver of Taxes, in place of Harry Howard—gone up higher.

No move was made in the Common Council last night towards confirming the street-cleaning contracts.

The Board of Health held its first meeting of the present year yesterday. The subject under consideration was a proposition from the Philadelphia Board of Health to hold a Quarantine Convention in that city, on the 13th of next May. The Convention is to comprise delegates from the various Boards of Health in the maritime cities of the United States, to confer in relation to the establishment of a uniform system of Quarantine laws. The Board voted to send seven delegates to the Convention.

In the Supreme Court, yesterday, Mr. Justice Roosevelt decided that the New-York Balance Docks of this City are, in their present position, nuisances, and must be removed. The suit was brought by John and J. V. Hecker vs. the New-York Balance Dock Company. The case, of course, will be appealed, and probably will be taken to the Court of Appeals.

The court of Oyer and Terminer opened yesterday, and adjourned till the first Monday in May, at 10 o'clock, A. M. Mrs. Cunningham Burdell and John J. Eckel, it is expected, will then be arraigned for trial, for the murder of Dr. Harvey Burdell. The District Attorney asked the Court for an order for a panel of 500 jurors.

The Parish Will case drags slowly on. Moses H. Grinnell, Esq., and Dr. Markoe were examined yesterday, and their testimony is to be continued to-day.

An old man named Stevens was burned to death yesterday morning, in a building at the foot of Thirty-ninth-street, in which he lodged. It is supposed that while intoxicated he set fire to his bedding. The building was damaged to the extent of about $3,000.

The wind blew heavily from S. E. to S. throughout the day, yesterday, and it rained without intermission from early morning to about 9 o'clock P. M., when the wind changed to the N. W., and snow fell for an hour. By 11 o'clock there were no traces of it left. Snow also fell at various points to the westward of here.

The large ocean steamer, built by Westervelt & Sons for Chas. Morgan, is to be launched to-morrow morning at 8½ o'clock.

Alexander H. Wallis, Republican, was last evening nominated for Mayor of Jersey City by the American and Republican Union City Convention. A separate Republican Convention nominated Dudley S. Gregory for the same office, but it is uncertain whether he will consent to be a candidate.

Virginia Frightened.

The designs of the "North American Homestead Company," and their benevolent intention of resuscitating the old and exhausted lands of Virginia, appear to have created a tremendous consternation among the sea-board inhabitants of the Old Dominion. The landing of Cortez in Mexico, or of the valiant Adelantado in Florida, did not cause half the terror among the simple aborigines of those parts that the anticipated descent of Eli Thayer upon Eastern Virginia has done among the chivalry from Richmond to Accomac. The bare prospect of an irruption of industrious Yankees, with an army of shoemakers, blacksmiths, carpenters, wheelwrights, and school masters at their back, coming into the quiet old counties on the James River, and building up populous towns and busy villages, quadrupling the value of land and increasing the population of the State, has given some of our Virginia cotemporaries a tertian ague. Mr. Pryor's new paper, The South, has been thrown into horrible spasms of fear by merely reading the programme of the Homestead Company, whose stockholders he mildly denominates "paupers and prostitutes."

The South counsels immediate and sturdy resistance to Eli and his hard-fisted myrmidons, who propose to overturn the existing order of society in Virginia by improving its waste lands and making its deserts to blossom like the rose. Like that noble English poet who sang:

> "Let laws and learning, arts and commerce die,
> But let us keep our old nobility—"

The South means to sacrifice everything to its slave pens and the old unprofitable trade in niggers. Like Rolla they want no change, and least of all such change as Eli Thayer and the North American Homestead Company can bring them. Our Virginia cotemporary is savagely facetious at the idea of the Yankee invaders coming to the eastern shore with the base design of getting a good dividend for their investment. Like Pistol, he evidently entertains the opinion that base is the land or investment that pays in the shape of a dividend.

Among our extracts in another column upon this subject, will be found an exceedingly sensible article from the New-Orleans Commercial Bulletin, which we respectfully commend to the attention of The South. That able journal—which can hardly be suspected of Abolition or even of Anti-Slavery tendencies—takes the liberty of saying that Virginia owes her steady material decline and degradation to the fact that all the energy, ability, enterprise, and industry of her sons are wasted upon Federal politics, instead of being devoted to the development of their own resources and the improvement of their farms, the building up of their manufactures and the enlargement of their commerce. If Virginians will quit office-hunting, and grow more ambitious of prosperity and development than of place and plunder, their lands will no longer be desolate and dependent upon Yankee "paupers" for the labor that is to make them valuable.

But, in default of all more rational resources, the hope of The South is in Governor Wise, who will permit "no nice technicality of legal forms" to stand in the way of the expulsion of all Yankee-land speculators from the worn-out soil of the Old Dominion. Upon this point also the New-Orleans Bulletin gives The South some good advice. It does not see any more clearly than we do how the Chivalry of the Order of the South is going to help itself. The owners of land in Virginia will be likely to sell it to the highest bidders, and no questions asked; but, even though they should object, the mortgagees might not, and those who buy the land will be likely to do as they please with their own; and even Governor Wise could not prevent them from deep plowing, which is the most treasonable act that will probably be attempted. But the Virginians may, if they are resolved upon it, by the most simple process in the world, prevent these contemplated Yankee invasions. All they have to do is to put their land at so high a price that it cannot be profitably purchased, and Eli Thayer and the North American Homestead Company will let them vigorously alone, they may rest assured.

Relieving Broadway.

We publish in another part of this morning's paper the report of the Special Committee of the Board of Councilmen, upon relieving Broadway. It is a careful, sensible and interesting document. The Committee recognize fully the importance of affording some relief for this blockaded thoroughfare, while they are at the same time too judicious and practical in their views to give any countenance to the various chimerical projects which have from time to time been proposed for the accomplishment of that end. They have evidently given a good deal of attention to the details of the whole subject, and their recommendations are entitled to respectful consideration.

The first point to which their attention is directed, is that of increasing the capacity of Broadway. The average width of the sidewalks in Broadway is nineteen feet and a half, and that of the roadway forty feet; but this is so reduced by hydrants, posts, projecting stoops, and other permanent incumbrances, as to leave an available average sidewalk of but ten feet wide, and in some places of little over nine. They recommend, therefore, the removal of the hydrants, posts, &c., and a reduction of the projecting stoops to a uniform width of five feet, which will give a space for foot passengers of thirteen feet six inches, and a roadway of forty-three feet—a gain of over three feet for the former, and over two for the latter. They advise, also, that eight feet be taken from the walk on the west side of the Park, so that hacks may be accommodated without trespassing so seriously upon the street itself. The Committee state a variety of facts, and refer to various City ordinances, to show that all these changes may be made without any violation of law, or any considerable expense, either to the City or to individual owners. The hydrants can be located in the side streets. The gas lights can be suspended from brackets on posts set within the line of the stoops and platforms, and all the awning posts and trees can easily and profitably be removed from Broadway.

The next topic discussed is the manner in which temporary obstructions occur in Broadway. All incumbrances arising from the piling of bricks, mixing of mortar, &c., for buildings, ought to be confined within the limits of the building lot. The sewerage of the street should be completed as speedily as possible;—the Croton water and gas connections can easily be made;—the privilege now accorded to processions of occupying the whole street should be greatly curtailed;—the number of stages running the whole length of Broadway should be reduced;—and Whitehall-street, State-street and Battery-place should be widened. These are the leading suggestions of the Committee in regard to these matters. The Report embodies the draft of two ordinances by which its recommendations are to be carried into effect. In regard to the diversion of travel from Broadway, the Committee promise a further report hereafter.

Those who are at all interested in this subject, which is one of marked importance to the whole City, will find various other statements and suggestions in the Report which are well worthy of consideration.

It will be observed by our report of the proceedings of the Councilmen, last evening, that upon the reading of this Report, the Committee was discharged from the further consideration of the subject. What was the particular motive for this summary action, we are left to conjecture. If the Committee had recommended some gigantic scheme, involving the expenditure of an enormous sum of money, its report would probably have been treated with more respect.

Counterfeiting Bank Notes.

There was a time when everybody had faith in bank notes—no matter where they came from, or what was their individual appearance. So long as the strips of pictorial paper, folded away in the people's wallet, performed all the functions of money, and so long as a belief existed in the people's mind that the said pictorial paper could be easily exchanged for gold and silver,—on an emergency—bank notes were regarded as something very desirable to have and to hold. Be they adorned by the engraver with Vulcans or Venuses, depicting allegorical stories of angels or devils; be they clean and wholesome in their person, or ragged, dirty and odoriferous,—the public smiled on them benignantly, cherished an unwavering faith in their virtue, and considered them competent to command all the necessities and luxuries of life. A bank note was a bank note until the counterfeiter struck down this faith of the people; who, being frequently cheated by the imitation, began gradually to suspect the genuine; and, at last, became so confused and confounded between the two, that, to reject everything in the semblance of a bank note which is not certified to be genuine is now a very common habit.

The bank-note circulation of the United States, at the present time, is estimated to represent about $190,000,000. In this estimate are included only genuine bank-notes, which daily pass from hand to hand in the exchanges of trade. In addition to these, there is in circulation a vast number of counterfeit bank-notes, whose representative value cannot be computed, and which perform all the functions of money; the holders of each being, for various reasons, unable to distinguish the one from the other.

The increasing circulation of these counterfeit notes is a just cause of alarm, and how to prevent it, or to secure ourselves from its effects, is a subject for serious consideration. The attempt to insure this protection, by some peculiar quality or style of paper, has often been made, and has always failed of success. Paper manufactured with "water marks," which express the denomination of the note to be printed on it, and the name of the bank issuing the note, has been tried. But the magical "water-marks" were immediately counterfeited, not only in some other paper mill, but by means of embossing plates applied by the counterfeiter to his paper, both before and after the paper was printed. A threaded paper has also been tried; large threads laid in the paper, while in process of manufacture, running lengthwise of the note, and corresponding in number to its denomination. But the threads soon wore through the paper, they could be easily drawn out, and their appearance on the note was imitated in the same manner as the water-marks were.

All protective or detective plans of this kind in bank-note paper are useless, for two reasons:—they are too simple to evade the imitative skill of an ordinary rogue, and they are too minute in their character to attract the attention of the people, for whose benefit they are intended. Any protective quality in bank-note paper, to be effectual, must have features so prominent as to arrest immediately the eye of a casual observer. A thread, or a water-mark, or anything of that kind in a bank-note, must be hunted out—a long and perplexing operation at any time, but especially when the note is as foul and ragged as are most of our bank-notes now in circulation.

The art of Photography has recently multiplied the dangers by which our bank-note currency is surrounded. The counterfeiter need no longer be an engraver or a lithographer. He now succeeds best as a photographic artist; and, as such, defies the skill which has heretofore been employed to prevent the success of his imitations. Photography now reproduces any engraving so perfectly, in outline, in detail, in tone and effect, that it is often impossible to say which is the original and which the duplicated impression. By this art our bank-notes are liable to be duplicated to an illimitable extent; and, indeed, they are now duplicated so skillfully and numerously, that bank officers in this City have been confounded, when called upon to decide between the genuine note they have signed and its photographic imitation!

But as long as photography can copy only one color, and that black, there is an easy method of preventing its use in counterfeiting our bank notes; which is to print the notes in more colors than one. This method has already been introduced by printing a bright and delicate tint over the note, from a steel plate, covered with fine eccentric lines, skillfully engraved. So long as this tint preserves its identity, the bank note is secured from an imitation by photography. But when the note has, from use, become soiled and ragged, its fine distinctive features of line and color are lost, and an imitation is easily produced; for the rogue has only to take a poor counterfeit of the note, cover it with a dirty tint printed in lithography, give it the appearance of hard usage, and the majority of people will suppose it to be only a genuine note which has been a long time in circulation, and as such they will receive it.

In considering these facts, it becomes evident that the security against counterfeit bank notes does not lie in any particular quality or style of paper. It already lies in the present system of engraving and printing our notes; but it cannot be perfected except by the aid of a law requiring of our banks two things: first, that all bank notes shall be printed in more than one color, and these colors shall have such a chemical affinity, that one cannot be removed from the paper, without removing the other; and, second, that every bank shall renew its small notes once in every six months. The first requirement will protect our notes from photography, now the only dangerous system of counterfeiting; and the second will give the people clean money, in place of those ragged, dirty and infectious notes with which parsimonious banks offend the community, and which, from their degraded appearance, are naturally suspected to be counterfeits by most of us.

The City Finances.

The Comptroller's Annual Report was submitted to the Common Council last night. The larger part of it is devoted to details of no special interest to the public at large. The expenditures of the City Government proper for the year 1856, which are the main matters of general concern, will be found embodied in a table, which we publish in another part of this morning's paper. The aggregate is $4,589,925. The payments from the Treasury for all purposes, except for the Sinking Fund, amounted to $17,228,724, which was an increase over the preceding year of $3,123,012:—this increase being principally made up of the following items:

Almshouse	$311,550 00
Blasting Diamond Reef	15,000 00
Building Court-House Third District	27,000 00
Interest on Revenue Bonds	86,594 68
Interest on Assessment Bonds	25,159 [illegible]
Lamps and Gas	66,2[illegible]
Police	15,6[illegible]
Paving Bowery and Chatham-street	33,9[illegible]
Salaries	62,4[illegible]
Surgical Department of Police	4,9[illegible]
Common Schools for State	52,3[illegible]
State Mill Tax	262,147 80
Judgments on Contracts on Central Park, &c.	75,915 38
Commissioners of Records	100,000 00
Central Park, on account of debt	1,342,837 20
New Reservoir	10,232 64
Total	$3,363,490 50

A very large portion of the increase in the operations of the Treasury arises from the receipts and expenditures on account of awards for land taken for the Central Park, and for opening and extending the Bowery and First-avenue. The total amount awarded for damages to parties whose lots were taken for the Central Park, is $5,111,426:—there has been received from parties assessed for benefit the sum of $640,000. The Comptroller states at considerable length the embarrassments that have arisen from the inability to pay these awards in cash. The total sum awarded for lands taken for the new Croton Reservoir, is $708,000. The construction of the Reservoir will cost $1,200,000.

The Comptroller devotes a large portion of the report to the exposure of the serious damages to which the City has been subjected in several cases of arbitration under resolutions of the Common Council:—but as the details of these same cases have been given, and the character and extent of this enormous abuse have been fully exposed in the Times within a few weeks past, it is not necessary to repeat them here. They ought immediately to receive serious attention from the proper quarter.

The Corporation Piers used for commercial purposes, are valued at $4,026,000, on which the total rent received is $186,631. The piers used for ferry purposes are valued at $1,617,000, on which the rent received is $99,905.

The Comptroller closes his report by sundry suggestions concerning the use of the Battery grounds, which, when enlarged, will cover an area of 24 acres:—and a variety of cogent reasons are given why a considerable portion of them should be devoted to the demands and necessities of commerce. Two capacious slips for the accommodation of ferries are needed at the southeast corner and two also at the northwest corner:—and the Comptroller strongly intimates that it may be advisable to make some new disposition of the whole of this ground, which has now become utterly useless, so far as the purposes for which it was originally laid out, are concerned.

South American Explorations.

Geographical explorations have become so common that even the sluggish States of South America have been awakened to the importance of a better understanding of their own Continent. We notice that, in the Chilian Congress, a sum of money has been granted to explore the sources of the Rio Negro—a branch of the Amazon—under the supposition that a river communication may exist between the Atlantic and Pacific. The idea, very likely, will be proved, by actual exploration, to have been chimerical. It has no other support than in the vaguest tradition. But the enterprise should not, on this account, be discouraged, for it will be at least a step towards opening the interior of Chili to population and cultivation, and, as such, is of sufficient importance to warrant the outlay that the Government is disposed to make for the thorough execution of the work. The National Convention at Lima has, also, voted a sum of $100,000 for the survey of rivers in order to facilitate communication between the interior Provinces of Peru and the Atlantic.

The importance of these movements to the States interested can scarcely be overrated. According to the present course of trade, merchandise from the United States is taken round Cape Horn to some Peruvian port on the Pacific. It is thence transported, on the backs of mules, across the Cordillera and the Andes to the various departments of the interior and to Bolivia, at an immense cost and sacrifice of time. While all this unnecessary labor is expended, the Amazonian tributaries, which penetrate the continent to the base of the Andes, and offer so many direct and natural highways for trade, are utterly ignored. Through the selfish policy of Brazil the great Valley of the Amazon continues a wilderness, and must remain so as long as the present laws exist respecting foreign commerce and foreign immigration. But as a question of national law it is certainly the right of those States, whose only channel to the ocean lies through the Amazon, to demand and insist upon permission to navigate that stream under their own flags.

In connection with the explorations to which we have alluded, we should not omit to make honorable mention of the Iowa Expedition, organized to trace the Napo from its source in Ecuador to its junction with the Amazon. According to latest advices, the Expedition had started from Quito. These different enterprises must all be attended with results of more or less importance. They will contribute largely to geographical science, and will advance the interests of commerce and civilization.

The Opera of the Street.

From the Journal of Commerce.

The organ-grinders being occupied in cleaning the streets, have suspended their accustomed avocation, much to the relief of the afflicted hearers. The sound of their shovels and hoes is far more agreeable.

We are very glad that persons have been found to clean the streets—and we regard it as decidedly to the credit of the organ-grinders that they should have contributed to so important and desirable an object. It shows conclusively that they are not organ-grinders from any unwillingness to work—and that is more than can be said of the members of a good many other professions which are considered ornamental rather than useful.

But we are inclined to go somewhat farther in defence of this aspersed "profession." It is all very well for the rich who have the Opera, and Thalberg and Grace Church to supply them with music, to disparage and contemn these street musicians; but they have their place in the amusements and entertainments of the City; and, if it rank not quite so high, we are not sure that it is not quite as important, as that of the upper circles of music. There are tens and scores of thousands of children and poor women who are quite as much delighted with them and to whom their mechanical music brings quite as much relief from gnawing care and heavy pain, as the Opera gives to its more fortunate devotees. The hand-organ is the Opera of the street,—and its audiences are infinitely larger, and more thoroughly pleased, though less critical, [illegible] crowd the Academy of Music. We are [illegible] sure that the organ soothes more pain, [illegible] more care, brings more relaxation and delight, and so serves what the great Poet tells us is the true end of music more fully, than the Opera,—for it goes to the class which needs such relief the most, and which can find it nowhere else.

We object, therefore, to the current wholesale censure of the organ-grinder. We regard him as a useful member of society. We like his music ourselves, and feel relieved whenever we hear him,—as we generally do,—under our office window at midnight. And we are very confident that nine-tenths of the community, if the choice were required, would vote for the suppression of the Opera rather than that of the Organ-grinders of the City.

Cannibalism—Abroad and at Home.—It is natural for man to leave, occasionally, his engrossing occupations, and turn his attention particularly to his own kindred. Our neighbor the Herald is not an exception to this rule. On Sunday it turned its attention to the heathen of the "Marquesas Islands in the Pacific." The Herald has heard from "our correspondent" that the savage men of the Marquesas are Cannibals, who eat their own wives and children; and that these Cannibals still follow the instincts of their depraved nature, notwithstanding "there is a large body of Christian Missionaries on the Islands, many of them from this country." The immaculate and pious Herald receives this information with joy, and straightway delivers a flippant sermon, to its Sunday readers, upon Christian Missions; wherein it ridicules these benevolent enterprises of the American churches in a spirit of profanity becoming its reputation. To slander Christian Missionaries in foreign lands is as naturally the duty of the Herald, as it is to slander good men at home. In either case the effect is the same. The subjects of the slander are unharmed; but another laugh at morality and religion is raised by that reckless and abandoned crew which haunts the outskirts of our society, and receives the Gospel only as expounded by "James Gordon Bennett, Editor and Proprietor."

We don't pretend to reason upon Christian missions with the Herald. That would be useless; for it is necessary, in any discussion of moral questions, that the person to be convinced of error should possess some moral susceptibility. Nor do we propose to accept the statement of the Herald in regard to the Marquesas islands as the truth. It may be the truth. But, from what we already know of the "historian" of that print, it is safe to conclude that it is not the truth. This, however, is nothing to our present purpose. We only wish to submit that the fact that cannibals are still found in the Marquesas, or in any other land where the Gospel is preached by Christian missionaries, is not half so strange an anomaly as is the fact that there still exists, in the civilized City of New-York, a cannibal of a different sort, one that feeds upon the character and reputation of our citizens, that is destroying morality and virtue, and is developing the most depraved appetites of human nature, wherever its influence is felt. The Herald should not be concerned about the cannibals of the Marquesas; the missionaries will take care of them. It should rather be concerned about cannibalism at home, and hasten its own conversion to civilization; for a cannibal that feeds upon the souls of men is twice as dangerous as one that feeds only upon their bodies.

Central Park Police.—The tax-levy which, over a month ago, was authorized by the State Legislature, includes an appropriation of $29,000 for the payment of arrearages to the Central-Park Police, Engineers, &c. Although it is notorious that the families of many of the members of this branch of the Police Department have suffered severely from want during the past ten months, the money which should have been handed over to them on the presentation of the Captain's pay-roll, is still withheld. This is against law, justice and humanity. No City official has the right to assume the responsibility of such conduct. Will the Comptroller be good enough to see that a remedy is forthwith applied?

Street Cleaning.—No action whatever was taken last evening by the Common Council, in relation to the contracts recently signed by the Mayor, Comptroller, and Commissioner of Streets and Lamps, for cleaning the streets of the City. Whether the storm, Sherwood's, or a concerted plan to evade the subject altogether, had most to do with this neglect, does not thus far appear, but will doubtless transpire in the course of [illegible] wait and see if [illegible] meeting; and [illegible] continue, as they have begun, to merit the approbation of the community, by a faithful performance of their duty.

Commotion.—We are satisfied [illegible] dence of the most conclusive [illegible] the statements contained in a paragraph inadvertently published in the Times of [illegible] last, grossly compromising the honor of a [illegible] now residing in a German city, and a [illegible] of the family of a well-known New-[illegible] chant, are utterly and maliciously [illegible] der these circumstances we deeply [illegible] publication.

The Meeting of the Tammany Society—Harmony Preserved.

The meeting of the Tammany Society held last evening was very large, there being nearly 300, out of the whole 400, members present.

The March meeting of the Society, it will be remembered, was the one at which the action of the Sachems, in excluding both the Democratic political Committees from Tammany Hall, was denounced. As this meeting was alleged to have been held without proper authority, its action has been treated as invalid and void by the Sachems. The first point, therefore, to be decided, was, whether it was or was not a regular and proper meeting. This point was substantially raised by Ex Grand-Sachem Bevis, whose sympathies are with the Small (Wood) Committee, and who moved to dispense with the reading of the minutes of the last two meetings (those of February and March) of the Society.

Sachem Waterbury, who belongs to the Savage side, moved to lay this motion on the table,—his object being to avoid the issue which the motion involved.

This motion was carried unanimously.

The Report of the Sachems—a lengthy document, giving a full history of their action—was then read, accepted and ordered on file.

Sachem Connolly (Savage) then offered a resolution, declaring the desire of the Tammany Society to promote, in every possible way, the harmony of the Democratic Party of the City, and recommending to the favorable consideration of the Sachems (who meet to-day at 12 M.) the plan submitted by Hon. John Kelly, at the meeting of the Sachems held on Saturday last. This plan proposes that the five members of the Savage Committee, and the five members of the Small Committee, in each Ward shall each select two delegates,—and that the Sachems shall appoint one,—making five in all from each Ward;—that these delegates thus selected shall meet in Convention, and devise a plan for holding the primary meetings of the party;—and that thereupon a new Democratic Committee shall be elected at primary meetings conducted in accordance with that plan.

Mr. Waterbury offered an additional resolution pledging the Society to sustain the Sachems if they would adopt the plan thus recommended to their favorable consideration.

Hon. John Kelly hereupon rose and made a long speech, saying that every man pretending to be a Democrat must be in favor of some effectual reform in the mode of conducting the primary meetings, and declaring his desire that all personal feeling should be sacrificed to the good of the party. He appealed to both the gentlemen who had offered resolutions to withdraw them, and thus leave the Sachems free to act untrammeled upon the whole subject.

Both Sachems Connolly and Waterbury at once acquiesced,—and withdrew their resolution, whereupon the meeting adjourned.

Personal.

The valedictory of Mr. John Appleton appears in Sunday's Union. Mr. Appleton says:—"We had intended to increase somewhat the size of the Union, to clothe it in a new dress, and to enlarge the sphere of its correspondence and its contributions. The idea, however, which we have seen mentioned, of making it compete with the double sheets of the London Times, never occurred to us. There is no place in England where the Times could sustain itself except London, and there is no place in America where a similar journal could possibly succeed except New-York. But in Washington there ought to be, as we thought, a political journal of the first class.

The oldest person present at the recent festival of the "Sons of Connecticut," at the Revere House, in Boston, was Joseph T. Buckingham, formerly of the New-England Galaxy, and the Boston Courier. This veteran editor is seventy-eight years old. Mr. Buckingham has resided in or near Boston since February, 1800; the first day he arrived, he heard Fisher Ames pronounce a eulogy on George Washington, who died a few weeks before.

Mr. Nathaniel Willis, who has been in the editorial harness for the long period of fifty-four years, has recently sold his paper, the Youth's Companion, and is now an associate editor, instead of sole conductor of that journal. Mr. Willis has started three newspapers, which are continued to this day, viz.: The Eastern Argus, at Portland; the Recorder, and the Youth's Companion, published in Boston.

Richard Boylston of Amherst, N. H., is an occasional visitor to Boston. He was a graduate of the Columbian Centinel office under Major Ben Russell, and in 1809 purchased the Farmer's Cabinet, a weekly paper, published at Amherst, N. H., with which he has ever since been connected.

The Springfield Republican of Saturday announces the retirement of Samuel Bowles from that paper, to enter upon his new duties in Boston. Mr. Bowles will retain his proprietary interest in the Republican. He is succeeded in the chief editorship by Mr. J. G. Holland.

Mr. Yerger, in announcing through the New-Orleans papers, his acceptance of the Presidency of the Southern Pacific Railroad, declares that he would not have done so had not the road been placed under Southern control and direction.

The Springfield Republican says, Hon. Rufus Choate was asked the other day what he thought of Judge Taney's opinion in the Dred Scott case. He replied, "My dear Sir, I pay $[illegible] per volume for the reports of the United States Supreme Court, and no power on earth can compel me to read them in the small type of the newspapers."

The Catholic Telegraph announces that the Right Rev. James Frederick Wood is appointed coadjutor Bishop of Philadelphia, with the right of succession.

Immense Emigration to Kansas.

From the St. Louis Republican, March 31.

The trains Saturday, Sunday, and yesterday, brought in large numbers of travelers for Kansas. The Chicago, Alton, and St. Louis trains brought down a company of eighty, men, women, and children. The latter half of the company came in yesterday, and this morning, with others, take the train to Jefferson City. The Ohio and Mississippi train last night brought one hundred and fifty passengers, many of them on their way to Kansas. Every train reaching the city swells the stream flowing towards the Territory. If the present flood continues through the spring, there is no extravagance in the estimate of those who anticipate the arrival in Kansas, this season, of seventy thousand, as a portion of the permanent population of the Territory.

Messrs. Ingraham, Paul, Foote, Tallett, Hogeboom, Lewis and George, spoke warmly and with eloquence of their associations with Mr. Babcock, and the House adjourned its session.

In connection with the vote in the House, on the New-York Charter bill, I think it but justice to make a statement. It should have been made at the time, but perhaps it is not now out of season. It will be [illegible] that five Republican members voted against the bill on its final passage. The death of Judge Watson, announced in the paper yesterday, relieves the Legislature from the performance of a duty that must be unpleasant, and [illegible] profitable to the public—while it devolves upon Governor King the responsibility of pointing out a [illegible] person to execute the duties of the office of Judge, [illegible] by Mr. W. Mr. Lewis moved that the House shall proceed on Wednesday to the third reading of bills, under the [illegible] rule.

[illegible] moved Friday.

Messrs. [illegible] and Jones reminded the House that [illegible] important bills yet remained unacted upon, and no order should be fixed until those bills [illegible]

The amendment was adopted, and so amended, the resolution passed.

Several private claim bills were ordered to a third reading.

Mr. [illegible], on a question of privilege, called the attention of the House to an act, passed some time since, to legitimatize the children of Marcus C. Stanley. That act legalized a great wrong. It [illegible] the children from their mother. This was a [illegible] of well settled law; but when the history of the [illegible] was known, it was a piece of monstrous legislation, which should at once be rectified. After a detailed statement of facts—which placed Stanley in the light of a great villain, guilty of almost every [illegible]—Mr. H. brought in a bill to repeal the law referred to.

A long discussion ensued, when Mr. Woods moved to order the bill to a third reading.

Mr. Foot objected, and gave his reasons at length.

A further discussion followed, and much excitement [illegible] the debate, when

Mr. Wooster moved the previous question.

Mr. Foot withdrew his objection, stating that he concurred with the House in its opinion that the principle of the bill to be repealed was wrong, and that these children, and all similarly situated, should be left with the Courts.

The bill was then passed—Ayes 85.

Messrs. [illegible] & Townsend offer at Trade Sale to-day a very large and valuable collection of their stereotype plates, wood cuts, &c. Their announcement in our advertising columns is worthy of attention.

The next anniversary of the American and Foreign Bible Society is to be held in Boston on the 18th, 19th and 20th days of May next.

LAURA KEENE'S THEATRE.—The [illegible] comedy called [illegible] was performed here last night with complete success. It has been played before in New-York, and it is unnecessary therefore to repeat the plot, which simply turns on the inconveniences, troubles, and humiliations which beset an estimable young couple in consequence of their living too fast. The dialogue without being brilliant is natural and vivacious. Rendered mainly by Mr. George Jordan and Miss Kate Reignolds, it is sufficient to interest and satisfy the audience. Both these artists played with marked ability; ably supported by Mr. Stoddart, and indifferently so by Mr. Lingham. The most difficult of all accomplishments has yet to be acquired by the last-named gentleman—stage ease. With excellent natural powers, he mars much that would be good by an embarrassed and awkward bearing. The afterpiece was the "Elves,"—the popularity of which does not seem to be on the decline.

BURTON'S THEATRE.—Mr. Burton, who enjoys a merited reputation for his Shakespearean revivals, availed himself last night of the opportunity afforded by increased facilities to reproduce the "Winter's Tale," which, our readers will remember, was brought out triumphantly at the Chambers-street Theatre two years ago, and at the time received our warmest praise. The present occasion enables us to say that he has profited by his opportunity, and in scenic effects exceeds even the expectations of what he would do. Excellently cast, excellently placed upon the stage, every one should see this admirable version of one of Shakespeare's masterpieces.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—A new grand ballet of an Asiatic character was produced here last night. The piece is from the head or the heels (it is difficult to determine which) of Mr. Barthelomie, and rejoices in the title of "L'Almee, or An Oriental Dream." We do not pretend to the mysteries of the Terpsichorean art, and are slow to interpret its language. We shall not, therefore, attempt a description of the plot. As a vehicle of much excellent scenery, much excellent dancing, and many excellent dresses, this ballet will, we fancy, compare favorably with any of its predecessors. We can praise everything but the music, which was badly played. It is a valuable addition to the already extensive repertoire of the Ravels, and so far as we are capable of judging, merits success.

BROADWAY THEATRE.—Old New-Yorkers will remember the excitement created some years back by the production at the Bowery Theatre of the scenic drama of the "Last Days of Pompeii." The vast stage and equally vast resources of that establishment were exhausted in the pictorial and dramatic effects for which the piece gives scope and purpose. Hamblin, Ingersoll, Gates, Mrs. Flynn, Mrs. Herring and other well-remembered names were in the cast, and by their exertions secured for the "Last Days of Pompeii" a run of nearly a year's duration. The powerful impression it made endures to the present day, and old theatre goers delight to speak of Hamblin in his great character of Arbaces the Egyptian Priest. The rising generation are also familiar with his glory. He has been immortalized in theatrical prints—a penny plain or two pence colored.

To produce the "Last Days of Pompeii" was a happy idea, which could only be perfectly realized at the Broadway Theatre, an establishment devoted to such laborious and expensive tasks. The result was a success which will reward the management and gratify the public. Some excellent scenery has been prepared, not always new, but good, picturesque, and effective. The costumes are rich, and as appropriate as such things can be. Good situations, tableaux, processions, delusions, &c., complete the catalogue of merits.

More than most spectacle pieces, this version of Bulwer's powerful novel admits of acting. The characters are well drawn, and the action is well sustained to the end. The hero, Arbaces, necessarily has the most important rôle. Mr. Loraine did not impress us favorably in it. The Egyptian priest did not bluster like a Cheap John at a fair, nor could the multitude have been led away by a person of such apoplectic tendencies. In spectacle pieces a little exaggeration of style seems inevitable—the actors appearing to struggle with the scenery, as with a deaf, but powerful rival. Mr. Loraine possesses more than an average of physical power, and he exerted it last night with an evident relish, which was fierce and terrible, but not pleasant. We are surprised that an artist of intelligence can so far overlook the obvious bearings of the character—so entirely misconceive it. Mr. A. H. Davenport as Lydon was careful, and consequently good. We recognize in this gentleman an artist of rising ability. Mr. Grosvenor as Glaucus, stiff, but alive to the requirements of the text. The remaining parts were filled ably—Mr. Seymour being, perhaps, the least efficient; a funny man who can't be funny is a sorry spectacle.

The character of Nydia, the blind flower girl, is the best drawn, and most human in the play. It was admirably sustained by Mrs. A. H. Davenport—delicately, touchingly, admirably sustained. Mme. Ponisi was, of course, the victim, (she always is, poor thing!) and played Ione with her usual ability.

The piece was entirely successful, and will be repeated every night this week.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—A glorious performance of the "Rivals" took place here last night, as an inauguration of a short season of sterling comedy. It is unnecessary to praise the performance. We will merely give the cast; every one who knows anything about theatricals will at once see its immense strength. Sir Anthony, Mr. Blake; Capt. Absolute, Mr. Lester; Sir Lucius, Mr. Brougham; Falkland, Mr. Dyott; Acres, Mr. Walcot; David, Mr. G. Holland; Lydia Languish, Miss Gannon; Mrs. Malaprop, Mrs. Vernon; Julia, Mrs. Hoey. All these artists were received with appropriate honors. The house was quite full,—a great compliment to the comedy and the manager, considering the night.

MARINE MATTERS.

Weather, Wind, &c.

A heavy blow, which set in from the South early yesterday morning, continued throughout the day and late into the night, accompanied by a copious fall of rain. Several accidents occurred among the shipping in the River and Bay, and it is feared that the gale may have been destructive to vessels on the coast. The steamtug Schultz had her pilot-house blown away. The ships Tarolinta, for New-Orleans, and S. Crowell, for Liverpool, while at anchor off Quarantine dragged their anchors and came in contact. The Tarolinta lost head, cutwater, rails, &c. The S. C. lost head rails and had bulwarks damaged.

The ship Southampton, lying at Pier No. 16, East River, broke loose from her moorings, but received little damage.

An unknown schooner drifted foul of the ship Aurora, lying in the North River, and bound to San Francisco. The schooner was considerably damaged, having her forward rigging and bulwarks carried away. The ship was not damaged.

The brig Crawford, of Machias, Small, from Nuevitas 15 days, with a cargo of molasses and melado, consigned to Zeraga del Valle & Co., when coming in the Hook about 8 yesterday morning, struck on Romer Shoal and started her stern post, causing her to leak badly. When off Buttermilk Channel she filled and rolled over. Her crew were taken off by steamtug Hector and brought to the City. Captain Francis, of the steamtug, offered his services to tow her, but was refused until the water was above her deck, and then, while getting a hawser to her, she rolled over and sunk. The Captain, one passenger and seven of the crew came up in the Hector. One man was saved by a barge from Governor's Island. She had no pilot.

Messrs. Johnson & Higgins, Insurance Brokers, have contracted to raise her, and operations will commence as soon as the weather will permit.

The frigate Niagara went into commission yesterday, and is now ready for sea, with everything on board except her 12 swivel guns. She carries four 32's, as signal guns, merely. Owing to the heavy storm that prevailed yesterday, her sails were not bent, and as it will be desirable to allow the swell on the bar, caused by the blow, to subside, she may not go to sea until to-morrow.

The steamers of the Stonington line now leave this City at 6 o'clock P. M., instead of 5, as heretofore.

The fine 3,000-ton steamer Queen of the Pacific, built for Charles Morgan & Sons, by J. A. Westervelt & Co., will be launched from their yard to-morrow (Wednesday) morning, at 8¼ o'clock.

The United States Mail steamship Illinois left her dock yesterday at 2½ o'clock, P. M., for Aspinwall, but owing to the severe storm she anchored in the stream until the weather should clear up. The Illinois carries about six hundred passengers; so great has been the demand for passages, the tickets were all sold two days prior to the day of sailing, and many who came [illegible] to the City until the past day or two, failed to secure their passage, and were obliged to wait over until the 20th of the month for the George Law. The Nicaragua or Morgan line of steamers has been hauled off the route. It is reported that these steamers have cost the Company upon an average from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars a trip, making an aggregate loss of nearly a million of dollars since the unfortunate difficulties commenced in Nicaragua. The carrying of passengers to California, at low fares, has never been a paying business, and nothing but the support derived from the Government for carrying the mails has kept the lines in existence.

The usual amount of swindling was practised upon the passengers in the sale of tickets by the Illinois. Some cases of great hardship occurred. A one German woman, who purchased a ticket of one Stellwagen, in Buffalo, went on board the steamer just before she started, and learned that she had only a receipt for money paid, for which she was to call on Mr. P. E. Lesacher, in this City, for a ticket. She had scarcely time to go to his office before the steamer left, but she got no satisfaction, and will have to be detained here upon expense, or be compelled to find her way back to her friends as best she may. It is estimated that 200 persons are swindled every month in this City, in the purchase of tickets for California alone, the aggregate of their losses being some $6,000 per month.

The particulars of the loss of the bark H. H. Crapo, of Dartmouth, Mass., with twenty of the crew, off the Coast of Natal, Africa, on the 19th of January last, have already been given, with the narrative of Capt. Baker's sufferings for two days and nights floating upon a raft, previous to his being rescued.

The following is the copy of a letter addressed by Captain Baker to the captain, officers, and passengers of the England:

To the Captain, Officers, and Passengers of the Royal Mail Steamer England.

Gentlemen: I make use of this my first opportunity to return publicly my warmest thanks and acknowledgments for the many and sincere kindnesses I experienced at your hands while on board the mail steamer England. I do not wish this to be understood as a formal expression of my feelings, but as a warm-hearted avowal of my appreciation of your noble and unremitting generosity, and record, with deep feelings, this, another instance of the many now bright in history, of the lion-heartedness of the gentlemen of the English naval and marine service.

I have, &c., ARCHILAUS BAKER, Jun.,
Captain of the late bark Henry H. Crapo.

There were more emigrants in Liverpool, up to the 20th of March, waiting passage to America, than were ever known in previous years, except in 1854. The price, which had averaged, up to that time, £3 to £3 10s., was raised to £4 and £4 10s. The fact that there was a scarcity of ships contributed to this rise in the price of passage.

The ship Ontario, Captain Wood, which arrived on Saturday, in 56 days from Liverpool, reports having lost two men on the passage. Feb. 28, Charles West, of Sussex, England, fell overboard and was lost; and, on the 16th of March, Edward Blisson, of Newport, N. S., fell on deck from aloft and was instantly killed. On board the bark John Hermann, from Newcastle, one man had a leg broken during a heavy gale of wind.

The United States steamship Supply sailed for the Brazil station on Saturday.

The "People's Line" was organized in 1835, but became independent of all other proprietorship only in 1842. During the fifteen years since that time, it is said no person has been injured on board these boats; the whole number of passengers which they have carried is estimated at 8,000,000, and the whole distance traveled 181,000 miles, mostly in the night. The sinking of the Boston is said to be the first accident of any importance that has happened to them, and this is not chargeable to official neglect. Ample provision is made to guard against fire and shipwreck. The compensation of the first pilots for the season is $1,000.

NEW-YORK CITY.

Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen held the first meeting of the April session last evening—Alderman Clancy, President, in the Chair.

A communication was received from the Mayor, submitting the following appointments for confirmation:

Wilson Small, to be Receiver of Taxes, in place of Henry H. Howard, elected Chief Engineer of the Fire Department.

John F. Hane, to be Deputy Receiver of Taxes, reappointed.

Charles Fletcher, to be Inspector of Vessels, in place of Wm. L. Wiley, whose term has expired.

The first two were confirmed unanimously.

When that of Mr. Fletcher was proposed for confirmation, Alderman Wilson said he was not aware that that nomination would have been submitted; and that he had a petition of Mr. Peter Duffy, for the same office, presented to him, which had been signed by several members. He proposed its reference to a special committee.

Aldermen Steers, Fulmer, and others, who had signed the petition, opposed the reference, and intimated that they had acted under a misapprehension when they signed the petition. The nomination was finally laid on the table.

The following petition was read and granted unanimously:

New-York, April 6, 1857.

To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen—Gentlemen: Having resigned the office of "Receiver of Taxes," a position in which millions of dollars belonging to the people passed through my hands, I most respectfully petition your honorable body to appoint Alderman Tucker, of the Eighth Ward; Alderman Blunt, of the Fifteenth Ward, and Alderman Fulmer, of the Sixteenth Ward, a Committee to examine my accounts with the City, and report the result to your honorable body, in order that if found correct my bondsmen may be discharged, and your petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

HENRY H. HOWARD.

A resolution was adopted directing the Corporation Counsel to inform the Board, at its next meeting, whether the Common Council have power to change the route of any stage line, without being liable to said line for damages, if any loss should be sustained.

Alderman Tucker offered a resolution authorizing the Governor of the Almshouse to take charge of the building being erected for the Third District Prison. The resolution was adopted.

The following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, In regulating Fiftieth-street, and widening Fourth-avenue, the Contractor has opened and exposed the old "Potter's Field" so that the remains of the dead are lying scattered over the ground; therefore,

Resolved, That the City Inspector cause measures to be taken to protect said burial ground, and also the neighborhood, from the evil effects of exposing decaying bodies to the open air.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the Street Commissioner to advertise for proposals for an iron railing around Tompkins-square.

After transacting some additional business of a miscellaneous character, the Board adjourned to Thursday next.

Board of Councilmen.

The Board of Councilmen met pursuant to adjournment on Monday evening,—the President, J. N. Phillips, Esq., in the Chair.

A petition was received and referred from John L. Brower and others in favor of a new avenue west of Broadway. Also from certain parties in favor of widening Frankfort-street, and its extension through Dover-street to East River. One from several property owners for the opening of what is to be named "Broadway-avenue," old Wooster-street, was referred to the Committee on Streets. Several other petitions were presented of no general interest, for remission of taxes and in relation to individual matters.

POTTER'S FIELD.

The question of the erection of a temporary fence round Potter's Field being brought up on the presentation of the report of the Committee on Public Health by a vote of 41 to 8, the motion for a fence was carried, the expense not to exceed $300.

RELIEF OF BROADWAY.

On the presentation of the report of the Committee appointed to investigate the best means of relieving Broadway, Councilman Haswell asked leave to sit again.

The motion that the report be accepted, the Committee be discharged, and the further consideration of the matter be referred to the Committee on Streets, was carried without a dissentient voice.

A most unusual number of documents were acted upon by the Board, but the majority of them were of no general, but rather of individual interest. In one, the worthy Clerk to the Common Council had a special interest, the adoption of a resolution awarding him $1,000 for compiling the Manual for 1857.

After sitting more than three hours the Board adjourned.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors held the first meeting of the April session yesterday afternoon, Alderman Jackson in the Chair. A bill of Solomon Kipp, amounting to $1,150, for supplies furnished the Eldridge-street Prison was referred to the Committee on Criminal Courts. A resolution was adopted directing the Comptroller to pay the amount due the public Court Clerks for services under a resolution of Dec. 12, 1855, and legalized by an act of the Legislature, March 10, 1857. The Board then adjourned to Thursday next.

Meeting of the Board of Health.

PROPOSITION FOR A QUARANTINE CONVENTION IN PHILADELPHIA.

A special meeting of the Board of Health was held, yesterday, at 1 P. M., in the Chamber of the Board of Councilmen. In the absence of the Mayor, President Clancy of the Aldermen was called to preside.

The following communication from the Philadelphia Board of Health was read:

The necessity and importance of an entire revision of the laws of Quarantine in this country has long been felt and acknowledged. Among the great commercial nations of Europe the paramount significance of the subject having arrested the attention of their leading men, a conférence sanitaire was held at Paris, 1851 and 1852, where the whole question was ably discussed, and revisions suggested that were intended to form the basis of a uniform and improved system of external health laws. Since that period, the question of their entire abrogation, especially in England, has been learnedly and minutely investigated. No one who has made himself familiar with the existing system of existing segregation as set forth in the antiquated Quarantine laws which, with few exceptions, prevail throughout the United States, or has either directly or indirectly been made the unfortunate victim of their overbearing interdictions, but must admit that in many of their leading features, insufficiency, oppressiveness, and inconsistency far outweigh the benefits which a well ordered code of regulations would confer upon any community.

Nor is the exclusion of uniformity in the laws of our State over those of another, a less objectionable element. The enforcement of an indiscriminate quarantine in one State is calculated to operate with serious embarrassment upon another, recognizing and acting under principles at variance with the former; and it is in vain we can expect any change in the policy of quarantine restrictions as at present adopted and enforced by the different sea-board cities, for the purpose of establishing a uniformity of laws, unless by a simultaneous movement of the several municipal corporations or Boards of Health, indorsed by legislative enactments.

In a sanitary as well as in a commercial aspect a change is alike desirable and politically demanded in the fundamental principles on which all our Quarantine laws are based. As regards the former, they have by no means kept pace with the rapid strides recently observed in the science of public hygiene; and with respect to the latter, they are singularly burdensome by clogging the wheels of a foreign trade whenever and wherever enforced. The commercial, the political and the social interests of the nation cry aloud for a remoulding of these external health laws, while the voice of humanity may be heard pleading for the adoption of measures less oppressive to the dictates of benevolence. No State or sea-board city is entirely satisfied with its existing Quarantine laws, owing, in part, to the great diversity of sentiment and uniform prejudices among those especially who are the custodians of these laws. Frequent and loud also are the complaints urged by others equally interested, of their onerous and unequal character, mischievous where they should be harmless, and disadvantageous where they should be protective. Governed by these views, and desirous of beholding "a code of laws uniform under all circumstances if possible) as would offer the fewest interruptions to an act of commerce, and at the same time guard that commerce so that it may not become a channel for the introduction of any agent which might affect the health of those dwelling in the sea ports." The Board of Health of Philadelphia in October, 1856, appointed a Committee to correspond with the Boards of Health of New-York, Boston, Baltimore and New-Orleans on the propriety of calling a convention of delegates from the various Boards of Health in the maritime cities of the United States, for the purpose of a conference in relation to the establishment of a revised and uniform system of Quarantine laws. Receiving the hearty concurrence of the bodies thus addressed to the proposed measure, and believing the time has fully arrived when the propriety of such a deliberative assembly will receive universal approbation, we hereby assume the responsibility of calling a Quarantine Convention, and would invite delegates not only from the Boards of Health but also the Boards of Trade and from two regular medical societies, (as may be approved of by the Boards of Health in those cities where there shall exist more than two organizations,) in each of the seaboard cities of these United States. Should no Board of Trade or Board of Health be organized in any of the cities addressed, the authorities will make such appointments in view thereof as in their judgment may be proper under the circumstances. Said convention to assemble in the city of Philadelphia on Wednesday, on the 13th day of May next, ensuing. The number of delegates to be at the pleasure of the board or society making the appointment.

WM. BONSALL, President.

Joseph P. Cood, Secretary.

In connection with the above, a letter was received announcing that a Committee had been appointed from the Philadelphia Board of Health in conformity with the suggestions in their communication. The letter asked that a Committee be also named from the New-York Board of Health.

It was moved that a Committee of Seven be chosen from the Board to attend the proposed Philadelphia Convention. The motion was carried unanimously. After an announcement from the Chair that he would name the members of the Committee at an early day, there being no further business, the Board adjourned, subject to a call of the members.

Fire and Loss of Life.

A fire broke out, about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, in the third story of a house at the foot of Thirty-ninth-street, belonging to the Long estate. The flames were speedily extinguished, with a loss of about $3,000; but an old man, known as Pop Stevens, was burned to a crisp in the room in which the fire originated. He was seen to enter the house in an intoxicated condition shortly before the breaking out of the fire, and it is supposed that he accidentally set fire to his bed. The other occupants of the dwelling made their escape with some difficulty.

A fire occurred at 9½ o'clock last night in the fancy store of Wm. Shaw, No. 42 Catharine-st. The damage done is estimated at $50.

The Burdell Tragedy—The Trial Postponed

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.—April 6.

Before Hon. Judge Roosevelt.

In the matter of the People vs. E. A. Cunningham (Burdell) and J. J. Eckel, charged with the murder of Dr. Harvey Burdell.—At the opening of the Court at ten o'clock, the District-Attorney, Mr. A. Oakey Hall, asked for a trial of the parties in this suit. The case had been set down for the third Monday of this month, but had since then been removed by an order of the Supreme Court to the Oyer and Terminer. No petit jurors had been summoned for this Court, as up to the time of the transfer of the case of Mrs. Cunningham and Eckel there was no business for a jury. As this case is a peculiar one, and has excited an extraordinary degree of interest, he would move its adjournment to the first Monday in May, and ask the Court for an order for a panel of five hundred jurors.

The Court asked if there was any other business.

The District-Attorney said there was not.

The Clerk—There is a Grand Jury summoned, but there is one also in the Sessions.

The District-Attorney—It will not be necessary to have a concurrent Grand Jury here.

Neither the accused parties nor their counsel were in Court.

The Judge granted the order asked for by the District-Attorney, and the Court was thereupon adjourned to Monday, May 4.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Hon. Recorder Smith.

The April term of this Court commenced yesterday, Recorder Smith presiding. The Grand Jury were not impanneled, a quorum not being in attendance. Dr. Alvah Blaisdell was summoned as a petit juror, but was not present. His name is intimately connected with the proceedings against Mrs. Burdell and Mrs. Cunningham, and as he was subpoenaed as a witness on their trial, he could not discharge the duties of a juror in this Court.

There were no trials yesterday. Some prisoners who were not sentenced in the last term were disposed of for varying terms, the longest being two years and six months. The District Attorney announced that the third week of the term would be devoted to the trial of important cases. On the third Monday of the month, Barnes and Linford would be tried for arson. On the following Tuesday, Dening, who was tried in the February term, when the jury disagreed, would again be brought before the court. The case of Dr. Elijah Hunt, for abortion, was set down for the third Wednesday, together with that of Miller for murder. On the third Thursday of the month, Arneson, the keeper of the lager-bier saloon in the Bowery, who shot a boy through the door of the saloon, is to be tried, and on the following day, the negro D'Orsay will be tried for killing a girl in Worth-street.

Ex-Alderman Samuel Bouton, of Brooklyn, lies dangerously ill at his residence on Flushing-avenue. He represented the Seventh Ward for several years in the Board of Aldermen.

NEW-JERSEY.

Nominations for Mayor of Jersey City.

The American and Republican Delegates to the Union City Convention held an adjourned meeting at the Republican Head-quarters last evening, and nominated Alexander H. Wallis (Rep.) for Mayor.

The Republican mass meeting to nominate a candidate for Mayor, met at Park Hall. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the attendance was not large. Alderman J. S. Davenport presided, and S. A. Hopkins was Secretary. Dudley S. Gregory was nominated. A Committee waited upon him, and afterwards reported to the Convention that Mr. Gregory did not accept it, nor did he decline. He desired, if a candidate, to be a candidate of the people, and not of a party.

RELIEF TO BROADWAY.

[illegible] ... At the meeting of the Board of Councilmen held [illegible] the following report of the Special Committee [illegible] was referred that portion of the late [illegible] His Honor the Mayor, designated as "Relief to Broadway," was received, laid on the [illegible] ordered to be printed.

The Special Committee, to whom was confided [illegible] of the late message of His Honor the [illegible] designated as "Relief to Broadway," having considered the subject, respectfully

REPORT:

[illegible] the imperative necessity of some [illegible] on the part of the Common Council, calculated [illegible] the relief so manifestly required, and at the [illegible] ... [illegible] by its action, [illegible] to attain.

[illegible] upon the roadway and sidewalks of [illegible] has very nearly reached the limit of their [illegible] capacity, and as, by the peculiar conformation [illegible] and the permanent character of the [illegible] the crowded occupation of [illegible] not only continue but increase, it is [illegible] that without the resort to an increase of [illegible] of the street itself, some legislation, having [illegible] facilitation of travel in it, is necessary to [illegible] and if so, the sooner this action is had, [illegible] the cost thereof will be, and the sooner will [illegible] be benefited by the change.

[illegible] resembling a river, into which is poured [illegible] of innumerable tributary rivulets and [illegible] ... [illegible] of your authority, may be [illegible].

[illegible] then presents itself to your Committee [illegible] distinct features, viz.: THE INCREASE OF [illegible] BROADWAY, essentially in the manner [illegible] by the Mayor, and THE DIVERSION OF TRAVEL [illegible].

Having agreed upon this basis, and resolved to continue their attention thereto, your Committee present these subjects under appropriate heads, viz.:

THE INCREASE OF THE CAPACITY OF BROADWAY.

BROADWAY AND SIDEWALKS.

[illegible] observations of the roadway and sidewalks of [illegible], it appears that their average width from [illegible] to Fourteenth-street, is 40 feet, 9 inches [illegible] and 19 feet 7½ inches for the latter. [illegible] being at Reade, Tenth and Fourteenth-[illegible] where the sidewalks are 22 feet 10 inches at [illegible] and but 16 feet 6 inches at the latter. [illegible] also, that the average width of space occupied by hydrants and their boxes, gas and awning [illegible] carriage steps and trees, is 23 inches; that the average width of stoops, and of platforms where there [illegible] are 7 feet 6 inches for the former, and 5 [illegible] for the latter.

SIDEWALKS.

Although the average width of sidewalks is 19 feet [illegible], yet, in consequence of the abuses, of stoops [illegible] constructed without the prescribed line, and [illegible] occupation of a portion of the sidewalks by hydrants and posts, the actual average available width [illegible] is reduced, by permanent incumbrances, to but 10 feet 4½ inches; at some points, [illegible] the stoops project 8 feet 6 inches, which [illegible] reduces the available width of the sidewalk to [illegible] inches.

[illegible] observed with surprise by your Committee, [illegible] sidewalks of Broadway have varying dimensions, there being no less than 12 different widths, the [illegible] reaching the almost incredible distance of 6 [illegible]; added to which the greatest widths are [illegible] very points where width of roadway is most required, and the width of sidewalks could be best re-[illegible] from Exchange-place to Fulton-street.

[illegible] therefore, the obstructions of the hydrants, posts, [illegible] the outer edge of the sidewalks, are removed, [illegible] the line of the stoops reduced uniformly to 5 feet, [illegible] will be a gain, in the practicable width of the [illegible] ... [illegible] in the available width of the street of not [illegible].

[illegible] consideration, however, of the circumstance that [illegible] for space for foot passengers increases [illegible] with that for a roadway, your Committee are [illegible] opinion that these requirements should be [illegible] in defining the width of the sidewalks. [illegible] from Fourteenth to Canal-street, the sidewalks [illegible] very properly be increased to eighteen feet six [illegible] each side, from thence to Vesey-street, [illegible] the standard width of eighteen feet, and from [illegible] to the Bowling-green to be reduced six inches [illegible] each side.

[illegible] there are neither areas nor cellars within the [illegible] of the sidewalks in front of Trinity Church, St. Paul's Chapel, and of the Park, there is no necessity [illegible] their being of the same width from the line of the [illegible] that there is when such obstructions do exist, and these walks might be several feet narrower [illegible] any others in Broadway, and yet of an equal [illegible] width to any.

HACK STANDS.

The requirements of the roadway of Broadway for [illegible] in motion are altogether too great to admit [illegible] standing obstructions, and as an allotted space [illegible] necessary for the accommodation of hacks, your Committee are of the opinion that, if 8 feet were taken off from the Park walk on the west side, and the sidewalk made 16 feet wide, that a very essential gain in the width of Broadway would be effected, [illegible] involving any comparative disadvantage.

AREAS AND STOOPS.

Unless a building is to be strictly occupied as a [illegible], there is no requirement for any privilege of an area, or an inclosed space in front of the [illegible] windows, as permitted by existing ordinances [illegible] these privileges.

[illegible] the propriety of a reduction of the line [illegible] stoops, so far as the cost and inconvenience thereof [illegible] owners of buildings upon the line is concerned, it is proper to suggest the following considerations:

The authority under which portions of the streets [illegible] taken for the accommodation of stoops, areas, &c., exists only by temporary permission. The Common Council never having legally conceded its jurisdiction over a street for its entire width, but in permitting a portion of it to be appropriated for the convenience of [illegible], it enacted ordinances, (see Rev. Ord. 56; [illegible], pp. 270 and 308, and 314, pp. 300 and 301,) defining the limits of its permission, simply for the purpose of restricting the occupancy of the work within [illegible] extent.

In corroboration of this, we refer to the following [illegible], viz.: (Rev. Ord. 56, chapter 2, title iii. [illegible], 303, 304, pp. 298 and 315, p. 301,) wherein the nature and limit of its permissions are fully given, which are as regards dimensions as follows:

[illegible] Areas, are permitted to be one-fifteenth of the width of street, but in no case to exceed five feet from the line of the street, or 5½ feet, inclusive of the railing.

CELLARS.

One-twelfth of the width of street, but in no case to exceed five feet from the line of the street.

STOOPS.

One-twelfth of the width of street, but in no case to exceed seven feet from the line of the street, or five feet in height.

It occurs, however, from very repeated observations of your Committee, that the cost and inconvenience of reducing the line of the stoops to a limit of five feet, will be far below what would be estimated, without an examination. Thus, in a very large number of cases, in consequence of the very general occupation of Broadway by stores, with low door-sills, there would not be required any reduction from the width of the platform at all, and, in a great number of cases, of stoops with a slightly raised sill, the reduction would involve only a very trifling cost. In many others, the cellar and area openings are within the limit of five feet, assigned by ordinance, and hence no alteration would be necessary. With the stoops, however, there would be many alterations; but, fortunately, the line agreed upon by the Committee is sufficient for any stoop, which is constructed within the limit of the ordinance, which restricts it to a height of five feet. If, then, owners of buildings [illegible] to build their stoops in violation of an ordinance, the cost and inconvenience of a conformance to the ordinance, at this time, is with them alone, they having voluntarily assumed the responsibility of the act, added to which, they are subject, thereby, to a penalty of $250. And also in those cases where the stoops project beyond the limit of the ordinance, (seven feet,) a like responsibility has been assumed, and a like penalty incurred.

If a building be designed for offices alone, such as the new constructions on the corners of Wall and Chambers streets, the privilege of an area and of a stoop of the full limit allowed is very desirable; and as this style of building is very much approved of, it seems to your Committee, that if any action is to be taken by the Common Council regarding an increase of the capacity of Broadway, that it is proper that it should be taken at as early a day as may be practicable, to remove the objections of increased cost, consequent upon the further construction of stoops, &c., not in accordance with existing ordinances, of delay, and of inconvenience, both to the City and our citizens.

HYDRANTS.

As there is no necessity for the location of hydrants nearer to each other than the width of the blocks upon Broadway, there is no demand for their location upon the direct line of this street.

GAS POSTS.

All street lights can be suspended from brackets on posts, set within the line of the stoops and platforms; there is no necessity for their location upon the sidewalks, and, as this means of suspension will set aside the necessity of any part of the support under the body of the light, a blown glass shade can be used with a hemispherical bottom, which will combine with economy of cost, the advantage of an unobstructed light.

AWNING POSTS AND TREES.

As the space occupied by these incumbrances is in no wise required by necessity, compensated for by [illegible] ornament, their removal [illegible] ... [illegible]. Awnings of a sufficient width can be supported by brackets, and as trees cannot survive the wounds they necessarily receive in Broadway, they are little more than decaying conveniences for the display of placards of questionable utility; their removal will be doubly advantageous.

NEW BUILDINGS—SEWERS—SEWER, CROTON WATER AND GAS CONNECTIONS AND RUSS PAVEMENT.

NEW BUILDINGS.

The incumbrances to the roadway and sidewalks permitted by the piling of bricks, mixing of mortar, and in many cases the actual roughing out and dressing of building stone, are not only prolific causes of obstruction to Broadway, but are coupled with the annoyance, that they are altogether unnecessary, as all work connected with the construction of a building could and should be, in the business streets of a city, carried on within the limits of a lot of ground to be built on.

SEWERS.

As there is not a continuous line of sewers throughout Broadway, and as the occasional construction of one is but a repetition of the arrest of travel during its progress, and of many of the items of its cost, your Committee are of the opinion, that if immediate steps were taken by the Common Council to cause the sewerage of Broadway, from the Bowling-green to Fourteenth-street, to be completed as early as practicable, that the cost thereof would be very materially lessened, both to the citizens and the City.

SEWER AND CROTON WATER CONNECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the enormous expense to which the City has been subjected by the cost of the pavement of Broadway, and the objections to the disturbing of that peculiar pavement, yet scarcely a day passes, without the breaking up of it, for the connection of a sewer, water or gas pipe, and the replacement of it by men, who are not only ignorant of the qualities of the peculiar construction they have destroyed, but think their duty discharged if the trench is filled up and covered over; now, as it is perfectly practicable to make connections with a street sewer or water main by a tunnel, your Committee are of the opinion, that the digging of a trench in a street pavement without the line of a curbstone, is not only altogether unnecessary, but is an operation involving great inconvenience to the public and expense to the City.

GAS CONNECTIONS.

From the circumstance of the gas mains being laid nearer to the surface of the street than the Croton mains or sewers, there is a difficulty in tunneling to them that is not experienced in the latter cases. But your Committee have authoritatively advised themselves, that there are but a very few cases, (not exceeding five,) where this connection does not exist in Broadway, and as the President of the Gas Company in the district in which these deficiencies exist, has expressed his willingness to lay the service pipes in these cases, the cost thereof to be collected by the Company when the service is required, any further breaking up of this street for purposes connected with gas connections, is not likely to occur for some years.

RUSS AND PERRINE PAVEMENTS.

In consequence of the insecurity of a foot-hold for horses upon this pavement, the individual loss and injury to horses thereby, added to the obstruction of the street, to which the repeated falling of horses gives rise, we are of the opinion that the Russ & Perrine pavements, throughout its entire line, should either be grooved, or the blocks broken into pieces, according to their size, and replaced in conformation with detailed specifications for this purpose.

PROCESSIONS, PARADES, &c.

It is quite customary for processions, &c., to be given the entire occupancy of Broadway, compelling all vehicles to turn off to a side street; now it is manifest to your Committee, that the occasion rarely occurs that so great a privilege should be acceded. Upon a late occasion, Broadway was thus allowed to be exclusively occupied by a procession, with a front of but two persons.

STAGES.

At this time there are ten lines of stages, comprising three hundred and twenty-five in number, licensed to run through Broadway to the South ferry, and an opinion was confidently entertained that the opportunity presented itself by an arrest of a portion of this number at the southern extremity of the Park; that very essential relief might be given to Broadway, below Vesey-street, which is the part most requiring it; but upon a consideration of the matter in conference with the proprietors of these lines, a majority of your Committee deem it inexpedient to make any other than the following recommendations regarding changes in the course of these lines: one being that asked for by the proprietors of the East Broadway line, who propose to run six stages through Madison and Pearl streets to the South ferry; and the other, that all stages running down to the South ferry shall pass on the west side of the Bowling Green and through State-street, returning through Whitehall-street, and on the east side of the Bowling Green.

BOWLING GREEN.

The space occupied by this inclosure is so great that the roadway is but twenty-five feet upon the east side of it, and but twenty-seven feet seven inches upon the west side; if, therefore, it was reduced in width fifteen feet upon the east side, a corresponding increase to the width of the roadway would be attained at a point where increased accommodation for the passage of vehicles is much needed.

WHITEHALL-STREET.

This street is quite too narrow for the requirements of travel upon it; an ordinance, however has been enacted, directing it to be widened to about sixty-five feet. The consummation of this measure, however, is delayed by litigation regarding the awards.

STATE-STREET.

This street has an average width of but 45 feet 9 inches, and as its west side is bounded by the Battery alone, a sufficient increase to its width might be had at the mere cost of removing the railing and sidewalks adjoining thereto.

BATTERY-PLACE.

This street, having but a width of 50 feet, is also quite too narrow for the travel upon it, and as it is bounded on the south by the Battery, a sufficient increase to its width might also be had at the cost of removing the railing and sidewalks adjoining thereto.

Entertaining, then, these views, your Committee submit the following ordinances and resolutions:

LAW RELATING TO BROADWAY.

Be it enacted by the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York:

SEC. 1.—That the widths of the sidewalks upon Broadway, from its commencement to Fourteenth-street, shall be as follows:

	Ft.	In.

From Vesey to Canal-street	18	6
From Canal to Fourteenth-street	19	0
From Rector to Thomas-street, on the west side only	16	0
From Fulton to Vesey-street, on the west side only	16	0
For the west side of the Park	16	0

SEC. 2.—That no person shall erect, or build, or cause any stoop, or area, in Broadway, below Fourteenth-street, to be made, which shall extend beyond the line of the street more than five feet, under the penalty of five hundred dollars, to be recovered from the owner and builder thereof, severally and respectively.

SEC. 3. That no awning or sign posts, box, step or sign, wares, merchandise, manufactures, or incumbrance of any description whatever, except it shall be a package of wares or merchandise in immediate course of receipt or delivery, shall be permitted to occupy the sidewalks of Broadway, without the line of the stoops, below Fourteenth-street, under a penalty of ten dollars for each and every article, and the further sum of five dollars for each and every period of twelve hours' incumbrance from and after the time of any complaint that may have been entered, until the removal shall have been complied with.

SEC. 4. That no person shall obstruct, or cause to be obstructed, the roadway, or sidewalks of Broadway, or of any other street below Fourteenth-street, less than eighty feet in width, with any building materials whatever, except so far as it or they may be in immediate course of removal or delivery, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every offence; and a further sum of five dollars for each and every day's occupation, from and after the time of any complaint that may have been entered, until their removal shall have been complied with.

SEC. 5. The Commissioner of Streets and Lamps is hereby directed to order and cause the removal of all incumbrances, from the sidewalks of Broadway, below Fourteenth-street, other than stoops, platforms, or public lamp-posts, that are within a line of five feet from the line of the street, within thirty days from the passage of this resolution; and if any owner, occupant, or person having charge of any building or lot, within the limits above referred to, shall refuse or neglect to obey or comply with such order, he, she, or they, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars, and the further sum of five dollars for each and every day's refusal, from and after the time limited and appointed in said order, until the same shall have been complied with.

SEC. 6. The [illegible] is hereby directed to [illegible] the removal of all stoops and platforms [illegible], below Fourteenth-st., that are within a [illegible] from the line of the street, within sixty days from the passage of this resolution; and if any owner, [illegible] having charge of any building or lot within the limit above referred to, shall refuse or neglect to obey or comply with such order, he, she or they shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars, and the further sum of ten dollars for each and every day's refusal, from and after the time limited and appointed in said order, until the same shall have been complied with.

SEC. 7. [illegible] owners or occupants of buildings on Broadway, [illegible] Fourteenth-street, shall be, and are hereby [illegible] to construct from the buildings thereon, wrought [illegible] for the support of awnings; which brackets shall be firmly secured to the building, and project therefrom a distance of ten feet measured from the line of the street; and no part of them, shall be at a less height than eleven feet, measured from the upper surface of the curb stone.

SEC. 8. Whenever any article or incumbrance shall have been directed to be removed, pursuant to the fifth and sixth sections of this law, and the same shall not be removed within the time limited in such order, notice or direction, it shall be lawful for either the said Commissioner or Superintendent of Streets to order the same to be transported into the yard occupied by the Superintendent of Repairs to Public Buildings, or other suitable place.

Complaints to be made to the Corporation Attorney, and the penalties to be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction.

AN ORDINANCE

IN RELATION TO LEASING THE CORPORATION DOCKS AND SLIPS.

Be it ordained by the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York in Common Council convened:

That in all leases that shall or may hereafter be made, in pursuance of law, of the docks, wharves, piers and slips of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, situate and being on the North River, west and north of the Battery, there shall be introduced and inserted a provision, making it a condition of the lease, that the premises leased shall not be used as landing places, either for freight or passengers from, or to, or for any steamboats exceeding 300 tons burden, trading or plying to or from any place in the East River or Long Island Sound, or which on their trips shall go through [illegible] the East River; and in all leases to be hereafter made of wharves, piers, docks or slips, situated on the East River, east or north of the Battery, a similar provision shall be introduced, making it a condition of the lease, that none of said last-mentioned premises shall be used as landing places of freight or passengers from, or to, or for any steamboats plying or trading, or going to or through any part of the North River.

Resolved, That the Street Commissioner be, and he is hereby directed to advertise for proposals, and report the same, when received, to this Board, to repave and regrade the roadway of Broadway and Whitehall-street, from Fourteenth-street to South Ferry, in accordance with the following general specifications, viz:

I. RESETTING CURB AND GUTTER STONES.

The curb stones, for the entire length, to be set to the lines of the streets, as required by the preceding law, and all gutter stones to be removed. Price to be given per lineal foot.

II.—GROOVING RUSS AND PERRINE PAVEMENT.

The upper surface of the blocks of these pavements to be cut in grooves, the cross section of which shall be either that of a triangle or parallelogram, each having a base of one inch and a depth of half an inch, and the line of the grooves to run at an angle of forty-five degrees from the line of the street. Preference will be given to the groove having the section of a parallelogram. As the purpose of the grooving is that of affording a surer foot-hold to horses than now exists, the number and frequency of the grooves to be cut, is to be thus determined: There is to be no part of this surface that is without the running of a groove or the occurrence of a joint for a space of four inches, to be measured from the centre of the grooves or the joints.

III. PAVING AND REPAVING.

Such parts of the sidewalks as may fall within the line of the roadway, by an enactment of the preceding law, are to be paved in like manner to the pavement of the roadway adjoining it. All inequalities in the pavement of these streets, now existing, consequent upon wear, the laying of sewers, &c., are to be removed, and a fair surface to be made.

Whenever new pavement is to be set at the side of the Russ pavement, a foundation of a concrete of rubble and cement is to be laid beneath the blocks.

The pavement, in all cases, is to be continued even to the curbs; no gutter stones, other than those of the blocks of the pavement, to be laid. All old materials, other than the flagging, belonging to individuals, to be removed and returned by the party executing the contract for the paving.

Resolved, That the Croton Aqueduct Department be, and it is hereby directed to have all hydrants and their boxes removed from off the sidewalks of Broadway, below Fourteenth-street, and replaced in contiguous streets, as near to Broadway as may be practicable.

Resolved, That the Commissioner of Streets and Lamps be and is hereby directed to submit to the Board drawings or models of a design for a gas-post suitable to be located in Broadway, the light of which is to be set within a blown glass shade, suspended within a bracket, extending at least six feet from the post, the bottom of the glass shade being ten feet from the level of the upper surface of the curb stone.

The drawings and models to be drawn or constructed to an uniform scale of four inches to the foot.

Resolved, That the counsel to the Corporation be, and is hereby directed to report to this Board, the cause of the delay in the opening of Whitehall-street.

Resolved, That the width of Bowling Green be reduced fifteen feet upon each side, and that the Street Commissioner be and he is hereby directed to advertise for proposals to effect the same, and report them to the Common Council for confirmation.

Resolved, That State-street be widened, upon the west side, to an uniform width of sixty feet, and that the Street Commissioner be, and he is hereby, directed to advertise for proposals to effect the same, and report them to the Common Council for confirmation.

Resolved, That Battery-place be widened upon its south side, to an uniform width of seventy-five feet, and that the Street Commissioner be and he is hereby directed to advertise for proposals to effect the same, and that he report them to the Common Council for confirmation.

Resolved, That the gates leading into the Battery, at the corners of Whitehall-street and Battery-place, when removed to the line of the streets as directed to be widened, be set upon a line of an arc of circle, having a radius of one hundred and twenty-five feet.

DIVERSION OF TRAVEL FROM BROADWAY.—As it is impracticable for your Committee to conclude its consideration upon this subject at an early day, it has decided to present the above report, being in part the result of their labors, and ask permission to set again, in order to conclude their further investigation of the subjects confided to them. SHIVERING.

We know that if the perspiration be suddenly checked, our sensations soon sound the alarm. Why is this? It is because the perspiration is thrown back into the blood, and retards its healthful circulation, occasioning in persons already predisposed to disease that feeling of which is commonly called

"CATCHING COLD."

Sudden changes of weather, from warm to cold, or from cold to warm, are always apt to be productive of sickness, unless people are careful to use BRANDRETH'S Pills when the first symptoms of "catching cold," or other feeling contrary to health, manifests itself.

"All ye who languor, droop and fade,
Or ye whom fiercer illness thrills,
Call the blest compound to your aid,
Trust to BRANDRETH'S precious Pills."

Sales at the Stock Exchange.... APRIL 6.

[illegible]

MONDAY, April 6—P. M.

The Official Averages of the Banks in the City of New-York, for the week ending Saturday last, April 4, the particulars of which are advertised separately by each Bank, in another part of this paper, exhibit, in the aggregate, the following changes from the previous statement of Saturday, March 28:

Increase in Loans and Discounts	$1,950,199
Increase in Specie	212,999
Increase in Circulation	238,499
Increase in Undrawn Deposits	653,772

COMPARATIVE RECAPITULATION.

	April 4, 1856.	April 4, 1857.	March 28, 1857.
Capital	$49,462,000	$59,262,000	$59,262,000
Loans	106,869,018	114,833,908	112,884,034
Specie	13,381,354	11,586,783	11,325,733
Circulation	8,347,496	8,812,398	8,473,899
Gold Deposits	91,008,406	97,340,916	92,616,560
Exchanged	23,023,780	30,456,835	26,386,144
Undrawn	67,985,676	68,984,188	66,230,416
Sub-Treasury	13,646,259	15,289,566	15,481,074

The heavy payments into Bank on 4th April, (the last day of the above average,) induced the greater part of the increase in the new Loans and Discounts. The same cause led to an increase of $4,070,681 in the average daily exchanges through the Clearing-House. The movement in Specie, Circulation, and Undrawn Deposits, is a satisfactory one. The Money Market to-day worked comfortably. There was, as usual before steamer day, a little more activity in demand loans. The Exchange sold to-day, and to be sold to-morrow, is not paid for until Wednesday. The rates on London are firm. Sales at 108⅝@108¾, and a further advance of ⅛@¼ talked of by some of the leading Bankers at the close. The Sub-Treasury disbursed $805,809, against $190,589 received, reducing the balance at the close to $15,175,086.

The downward course of prices at the Stock Exchange, noticed in our weekly review this morning, continued to-day. Heavy contracts were pressed in New-York Central, Illinois Central, Reading and Erie, and each declined from the sales of Saturday; Illinois Central from 131½, the opening sale, to 129¾ at the close. New-York Central, 87¾; Reading, 78½, and Erie, 52¼ ☞ cent. The sales of Southern Michigan closed at 69½, against 70¾ on Saturday afternoon. Chicago and Galena left off 101, and Cleveland and Toledo 71¾ cash. The business of the day amounted to about 20,000 shares different Road and other shares, a large portion on contract or on borrowed stock. The outside support to the market in the way of orders is wholly unequal to the determined spirit manifested by two-thirds, not to say three-fourths of the jobbers, inside the Board and on the Street, to have the general range of the prices lower, and to this end such stocks as New-York Central, Illinois Central and Reading, were specially singled out for an attack to-day. The general list left off dull.

The managers of the New-York and Erie Company are advertised from Albany to-day that the bill to authorize the distribution of stock equal to the amount of the Bonds of 1875, converted through the Sinking Fund, has passed the House of Assembly without amendment; and as it had previously passed the Senate, the signature of the Governor is now only wanting to make it the law.

The Continental Bank has resolved on an increase of Capital to $2,000,000. The present Capital is $1,500,000. The new stock is to be awarded to the old stockholders on 15th June, in the proportion of one share to three.

Mr. JOHN CATLIN, formerly of Milwaukee, where he directed the building of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Road, as President of the Company, has gone into the Banking and Exchange House of Messrs. W. J. BELL & Co., corner Exchange-place and William-street.

In regard to the Cotton crop the circular of Messrs. NEILL BROTHERS, (for the Boston steamer,) of this date, remarks:

"The rapidity of the decline in receipts is calculated to remove any doubt that may have existed with regard to the shortness of the crops, and we think there remain very few persons of intelligence who advocate views much over 3,000,000 bales. For the past week, indeed, the falling off is so great (39,000 bales against 88,000 last year) as to confirm very strongly all that has been said about the crop being hurried down to the ports before its usual time, owing to extended facilities and high prices. The figures by telegraph, however, are not quite so small as those in the table, though still falling greatly short of last year. It will be noticed that the aggregate deliveries to date, amount to 2,618,000 bales, against 2,909,000 bales last year, and against 2,821,000 in 1852-3. There is thus, as compared with 1852-3, a falling off of 203,000 bales. Should this falling off be only maintained to the end of the season, it would (as the total crop of that year was 3,262,000 bales) indicate the final result of this year to be 3,059,000 bales. As the figures now stand they are therefore fully confirmatory of estimates of about 3,000,000 bales."

Money Circular for Europe.

Per Europe.] NEW-YORK, Monday, April 6, 1857.

In the face of an increasing ease in the money market, since our last advices of the 21st ultimo, the tendency of prices in the stock market has been downward. The movement in shares, which has been tolerably large, has run chiefly upon the speculative stocks, and has been mostly confined to a few large operators. But few stocks for permanent investment have been bought during the week. The payments into the banks of an unusually large amount of notes, falling due the 4th instant, were made with unexpected ease. There was no unusual demand for money on that day, as had been anticipated by many. State Stocks—Large sales have been made in Missouri 6 ☞ cents and Virginia 6 ☞ cents, at a fraction decline in rates. Some Ohio 6 ☞ cents, and New-York State 6 ☞ cents, and New York 5½ ☞ cents, were done without change in prices. Indiana State 5 ☞ cents at a small advance upon the price of last week. City and County Bonds have been very dull. A few retail sales of Louisville 6 ☞ cents and Milwaukee 7 ☞ cents, at former prices, are all we have to mention. Railroad Bonds have been very inactive at private sale. At the stock Exchange operations have been chiefly in Illinois Central Construction Bonds, and in the different issues of the Erie Railroad. Some few sales, also, have been made of the New-York Central 6 and 7 ☞ cents., and of the different issues of the Hudson River Railroad, all at a fraction decline in prices. Railroad Shares—The operations of the week have been principally in Reading, New-York Central, Erie, Cleveland and Toledo, and Michigan Southern. This last opened at 71¾, and after falling to 69½, rallied and closed at 70½. For the daily fluctuations of State Stocks, Railroad Bonds and Railroad Shares, we refer to our bulletin. Money without change in rate, though the supply is freer—demand loans 7 ☞ cent.; good paper, not very abundant, at 8½@12, according to class and length. DE COPPET & CO.
